Macfarlane Standout 'New Boy'

ALAN MACFARLANE

By PETER BRUTON

Of this year's crop of legislative "new boys" Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane was a standout.

Last September's provincial election saw quite a few changes and when MLAs gathered in Victoria for the recent session one-third of the province's 52 legislators were new.

True, two of these 14 had served in the House previously – North Vancouver's J. Gordon Gibson of the Liberals and Frank Calder, the Indian CCFer from Atlin.

The session had hardly got under way before Mr. Macfarlane began to show the quite considerable debating prowess he has at his command.

And by the time the session was nearing its end he was getting one of the highest accolades given opposition MLAs — Premier Bennett would openly display his anger and displeasure at Mr. Macfarlane.

Unlike most other professions a lawyer makes his living at debating and at that Mr. Macfarlane excels. Perhaps he's just a very good lawyer but it seemed to observers that he was the one who mostly scored with a telling criticism or a sound suggestion when it was needed most.

Another lawyer and another Liberal, Harry McKay of Fernie, came closest to Mr. Macfarlane insofar as ability was concerned but he openly admitted that he was still trying to find his feet, so to speak, and didn't say as much as he could have.

Outshone Most Others

It was perhaps unfortunate for Liberal Leader Ray Perrault that two of his members plainly outshone him. But the fact remains they outshone most others, including some who had been in the House for years.

The new Liberal leader didn't have a good session.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner summed it up well when he accused Mr. Perrault of "superficiality."

All too often it seemed the Liberal chieftain would arise and say how such and such an expert supported his views or how the people who should know said such and such.

"Name them, name them," the other members would shout.

Mr. Perrault couldn't or at best wouldn't identify someone who could not be regarded as an impartial and unbiased expert.

It seemed he was a little out of his depth, that he was an amateur in pro ranks.

The member who really surprised was Gordon Gibson, the millionaire logger who first said "money talks" in the issuance of forest management licences.

Before the session Mr. Gibson told students at University of B.C. that he intended to uncover untold scandal in Victoria.

"I haven't looked under the rug yet but I'm sure the dirt is there," he said.

This in itself sparked a monster of a legislative row which reached ridiculous proportions when there was talk that Mr. Gibson could be arrested and incarcerated in the jail cell in the basement of the legislative buildings.

Three Years Later

Mr. Gibson, it must be admitted, was the first to publicly state that there was something wrong in the lands and forests department. Three years later former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers was sentenced to five years in jail on bribery charges.

In the interim the burly Mr. Gibson had resigned his seat to test public opinion and had lost—to Social Credit.

This year, he came to Victoria to have his day.

He certainly had it.

In a sensational speech he attacked both Highways Minister Gagliardi and Attorney-General Robert Bonner, he accused the government of moral decay and corruption, and he openly hinted that scandal was everywhere, waiting to be uncovered.

For a week or more charge and counter-charge rocketed back and forth. Mr. Gibson had sought special privileges, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson. He was trying to buy information to hurt Social Credit, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson.

And from then on Mr. Gibson settled down to speak only on a subject he knows intimately—forestry and logging.

The government didn't accept many of his suggestions but he was praised by the Socred members for the manner in which he was delivering his criticisms.

On a man to man basis the CCF had a very good group of new members.

Served Short Stint

Alex Macdonald of Vancouver East, who served a short stint as a CCF MP in Ottawa, was impressive as was the CCF's social welfare critic David Barrett of Dewdney.

Both showed an ability to hit and hit hard and once again the success of their attack was demonstrated in the anger it generated from the government side of the House.

Mrs. Camille Mather (CCF-Delta) started slowly but picked up steam as the session went on and will no doubt improve greatly during the next four years.

But all things considered there was one standout as the most colorful of all new members on either side of the legislature.

That was Waldo Skillings, the new Social Credit member for Victoria.

Before the session Mr. Skillings said he would say and do little until he had learned the ropes and had time to get his feet under the table.

Within a few days, it seems, he succeeded in his aim.

He became the government's main heckler . . . sometimes it seemed he would heckle just for the sake of saying something.

For instance a request from CCF leader Robert Strachan for the government to do something about flooding in the Cowichan-Newcastle area brought this cry from Mr. Skillings:

"Think of B.C. Bob, put B.C. first."

It was an amazing comment to say the least.

But observers still regard Mr. Skilling's exhibition in the public accounts committee as the piece de resistance of the whole session.

Words having failed he invited a CCFer to step outside to settle their differences. What could top that?

Ferries Cut Deep Slash In Traffic at Airport

VANCOUVER (CP)—Manager William Inglis of Vancouver airport says airport passenger traffic in 1960 was 125,000 less than forecast largely because of the provincial government's Tsawwassen ferry service to Vancouver Island.

Total number of passengers in and out of the airport was 925,000 compared with a forecast of 1,050,000.

SECOND CHILD DROWNS IN THREE-DAY PERIOD

Pool in Esquimalt Scene of Tragedy

* * *

PATRICK CARSON
. . . cowboy hat

The second Greater Victoria death by drowning of a four-year-old child in a three-day period occurred yesterday in Esquimalt.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital was Patrick Robert Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Carson, 105 Fernhill, who fell into a private swimming pool about 200 yards from his own home.

LESS THAN MILE

On Friday, less than a mile from yesterday's tragedy, four-year-old Gina Kunalevich, of 888 Dominion, drowned in a rain-filled hole, dug for a clothesline post.

Police confirmed the Carson boy drowned in a pool but threw a veil of secrecy over details.

COWBOY HAT

Apparently the lad, wearing a cowboy hat and two gun belts, wandered away from home during the late afternoon. Police went out to look for him shortly before 6.30 p.m.

A prepared press release from Esquimalt police said that a neighbor, Jack Moffat, of 840 Fernhill, heard that other neighbors were searching for the youngster, and went to his swimming pool where he found the body in the pool.

PHONED FOR HELP

Police also said a woman phoned for help from the Moffat residence about 6.45 p.m. and that when their car, nearby at the time, arrived at the scene, Mr. Moffat was applying artificial respiration.

One of the two policemen who attended—Consts. Archie Browning and Frank Bell—applied mouth-to-mouth respiration en route to hospital.

NO RESPONSE

The boy was dead on arrival but respiration was continued for five minutes with no response, said a hospital spokesman.

Police notified the coroner, Dr. John H. Moore.

HOW DEEP

Asked how deep the water was and whether there was a fence around the swimming pool, Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe said, "You'll have to find out for yourself."

The front-yard pool is surrounded on three sides by a high wooden fence. There is a large rock outcropping on the side closest to the Moffat home.

DEEP END

Mr. Moffat said he found the boy at the deep end of the pool where the water was about six feet deep. It was about three feet deep at the shallow end.

The child's grandfather, Robert Saunders, 3977 Rainbow, who accompanied the saddened parents to hospital, said Patrick was the only son. The Carsons have a one-year-old daughter, Deborah.

Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Byelections to fill the existing four vacant seats in the House of Commons—for Esquimalt-Saanich, Leeds in eastern Ontario, Restigouche-Madawaska in New Brunswick, and Kings in Prince Edward Island — are being scheduled for mid-June.

Choice of dates for the four byelections, to be announced by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker soon after Parliament's return next Monday from its Easter holidays, rests between June 12 or June 19, according to cabinet sources.

All four constituencies were formerly held by the Conservatives. The current line-up in the 265-member House of Commons is: Conservatives 202, Liberals 50, CCF-New Party nine, vacant four.

Algeria Ready To Talk

TUNIS, Tunisia (Reuters)—The information minister in the Algerian insurgent provisional government said Monday night peace talks with France could still open as scheduled Friday if the French government shows "goodwill."

"We repeat that we are ready for negotiations, when we say ready we mean we are ready now, at this instant," Mohammed Yazid said.

The insurgent government announced last Friday it could not attend the talks.

Cut Off All Ties With South Africa 25 States Tell UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Twenty-five African nations demanded Monday night that the United Nations break all diplomatic, economic and political relations with South Africa because of its apartheid policies.

A resolution calling for the UN General Assembly to recommend extreme penalties against South Africa was submitted by the 25 nations for debate in the assembly's special political committee.

LED BY GHANA

The move, led by Ghana, represented a split in the Afro-Asian group.

India, Ceylon and Malaya submitted a resolution earlier that would permit nations to take whatever single or collective action they thought fitting to try forcing South Africa to change treatment of its 10,000,000 non-whites.

WITHDREW

South Africa, at the recent Commonwealth prime minister's conference in London, withdrew its application for continued membership in the Commonwealth.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, said the decision was made because of continuing criticism of South Africa's policy of apartheid by the other members of the Commonwealth.

Longer Day in Fall For High Schools

VANCOUVER (CP) — The school day will be longer in B.C. high schools starting in September and the Christmas holiday will be cut by three days, Education Minister Peterson told the B.C. teachers' convention Monday.

Hours in junior and senior high schools will be 15 to 30 minutes longer (minimum of 5½ hours and maximum of 6) at the discretion of the individual school board.

The 10-day Christmas holiday will be cut to seven school days but the Easter vacation will not be changed "at this time." There will be no change in elementary school hours.

Lynn Peachy, graduate of Oak Bay High School, was awarded the $200 Charlesworth memorial scholarship by the teachers' federation.

Mrs. Ingrid Cowie, Campbell River elementary school teacher, won the $300 1961 Christie scholarship.

Empress Bucks Ice

MONTREAL (UPI) — The passenger liner Empress of Britain with 525 passengers aboard was reported making slow progress last night in the Gulf of St. Lawrence en route to Montreal.

The Canadian Pacific liner was scheduled to arrive here today but officials said last night that the ship's arrival time could not be confirmed.

The 35,000-ton liner was proceeding through more than 30 miles of thick ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It sailed from Liverpool March 28.

31 Held in Vast Ban-Bomb Rally

LONDON (UPI) — Thirty-one demonstrators, including an American, were arrested last night in the aftermath of a giant downtown rally against nuclear weapons that spilled over to the American embassy.

Two of the arrests were made in front of the embassy and 25 more in front of the Saville Row police station several blocks away. Four other persons were arrested at the rally in Trafalgar Square.

Scotland Yard refused to disclose names of those arrested but said their case would be heard today.

More than 1,000 police were on hand to watch the mammoth rally.

Demonstrators ranged from youths with bare feet and beatnik beards to Member of Parliament Michael Foot. They were led by 88-year-old philosopher Bertrand Russell and included Anglican Canon John Collins, head of the campaign for nuclear disarmament, and Jacquetta Hawkes, wife of writer J. B. Priestley.

The crowd was estimated by police to number 50,000 and by the demonstrators to number 100,000.

After the rally 1,000 of the marchers converged on the U.S. embassy in Grosvenor Square and sat in silent protest for an hour.

The marchers included beatniks, Communists, Quakers, Scottish nationalists, Jewish youth groups, Church of England youth groups and other organizations and representatives from 37 nations, including the United States.

HAMBURG (Reuters) — About 8,000 West Germans took part in "ban-the-bomb marches," ending with rallies in 10 big West German towns Monday.

In Amsterdam, The Netherlands, some 1,600 ban-the-bomb demonstrators took part Monday in marches through the city.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I spent a recent afternoon at my brother-in-law's house and was shown a novel my six-year-old nephew Woody is working on.

Woody is in now, but his father taught him to read before he entered school with the aid of my book "Why Johnny Can't Read" (Harper). So Woody can read but not only that, he can write. He's a budding author all right.

Some months ago he settled down with a big exercise book and started work on his novel. It's called "King Al and His Knights of the Triangle Table." It consists of a series of adventures and battle scenes, all splendidly illustrated with line drawings filled in with crayon.

Wandering Hero

In other words, Woody, all by his little self, rediscovered the picaresque novel—a series of adventures of a wandering hero, which is generally considered the classic form of novel.

There's no doubt at all that "King Al and His Knights of the Triangle Table" is a work of the creative imagination. I can't claim, however, that it is also a masterpiece of spelling. Here, for instance, is one of the high points of Woody's narrative:

"Soon, Al's! Men Kaim! to a Dragun! They Faut! And Faut! And They Faut! Aaaand, Faut!"

A few pages later, there's this:

"They Kaim to a Rivoor. They Bilt a Boat And they Went into the Rivoor. They Saild 77 days of Rof Wethr. But, they maid it."

Tremendous Gift

As you see, Woody hasn't yet reached the point where he accepts without a murmur such conventional spellings as came or fought or built. But on the other hand, consider his tremendously effective use of punctuation, his natural gift for story-telling and his intuitive knowledge that the word "Aaaand" in the sentence "Aaaand Faut!" should be spelled with four successive a's.

I understand that most of Woody's classmates in his public school dutifully struggle through "Dick and Jane" or "Alice and Jerry" or whatever other insipid first reader they use there. It's wonderful to know that Woody has managed to break out of that vicious circle.

So far, "King Al and His Knights of the Triangle Table" is unfinished. Woody tells me he has some other even more thrilling adventures up his sleeve.

Your Good Health

Nothing Wrong About Blushes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there some way blushing can be controlled? Why do some people blush so violently and others not at all? My daughter, 16, is very embarrassed because of blushing.—Mrs. G. J."

It's like asking why some people are wonderful football players, others can write poetry and still others can (or can't) make omelets that melt in your mouth.

Talents, tastes, nervous reactions vary. We don't know all the reasons, and probably never will. But why should we worry?

It takes all of us to make a world, each contributing his talents and each recognizing that nobody can do everything.

ALL DO PART

Some of us are emotionally very sensitive and others aren't. Some are natural show-offs and some prefer to sit back quietly. We all do our part. We're all just a little bit different from anyone else.

If we knew everything about life, I suppose we could find the reason for blushing. But we don't know all about life. We have, in some thousands of years of study, just found out a few things.

DELIVER ME

Blushing isn't a fault. It isn't a disease. In fact, there's nothing wrong with blushing—except that people who blush happen to be, apparently, shy and self-conscious. Well, deliver me from any world in which we don't have a leavening of shy, self-conscious, sensitive people. We need 'em! I'd hate to live in a world made up of nothing but self-assured, dominant, aggressive people, just as I'd hate to live in a world of shy, quiet ones.

And let's leave the reasons to be discovered later. I don't really care much.

THREE PARTS

Blushing is probably a combination of complexion, depth of surface blood vessels and nervous reactions.

I doubt that anything can be done consciously to prevent blushing. Subconsciously, sooner or later victims — if that's the word, and I doubt it — of blushing gradually realize it doesn' do any harm and doesn't hurt anybody.

When that time comes, they relax—and stop blushing!

Yes, the "problem" of blushing is almost always outgrown.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told by three doctors that my gall bladder is not functioning at all and should be taken out, but I am so afraid of an operation. Do you think by not having the operation any other part of my body can be damaged? I get very sick at times, and oh, those awful pains.—Mrs. C. C."

Damaging other organs isn't the problem, but there is a risk in some kinds of gall bladder disease of the organ becoming gangrenous or cancerous. Quite aside from that, why let the misery of those pains continue? The operation has been performed upon thousands and thousands of people and there is no reason for you to worry so long as, in general, your health is adequate. Obviously it is, since your doctors advised the operation.

Note to J.O.: Yes, hot water to rinse the soap or detergent off the dishes is important. Any substantial residue may not do any terrible harm but it may upset your innards. So do a good job of rinsing.

UN Stalls Showdown

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Amid new wrangling, the UN General Assembly Monday approved a hand-to-mouth extension of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's spending powers for the UN Congo operation.

* * *

Congo Costs Paid —For Little While

A stopgap resolution proposed by India was approved 51 to 10 with 22 abstentions.

DEADLINE SET

It extends Hammarskjold's mandate to spend at the rate of $8,000,000 a month on the military and civilian Congo job until April 21, date of the assembly's adjournment.

The Soviet bloc and Mali opposed the motion. Soviet delegate A. A. Roschin said only the security council—in which Russia has a veto—has authority to approve Congo expenditures.

SHOWDOWN LATER

The assembly action merely postpones a showdown on the issue of Congo financing since the problem of how to meet the 1961 budget estimated at $120,000,000 has yet to be faced.

Elsewhere, debate continued in the 99-member political committee on racial strife in South Africa.

MORE TO COME

Some 25 countries already have been heard in the often-repetitious debate. Another 25—including Canada—are still to speak.

Complicating the Congo budget problem was the refusal of the Soviet bloc to contribute anything for 1960 or 1961. France has taken a similar position although it has not yet announced so publicly. Latin American nations say they cannot pay any significant amount.

Venezuela's Carlos Sosa Rodriguez introduced a resolution backed by 18 Latin countries, calling upon the five permanent members of the security council—the U.S., Britain, France, Russia and Nationalist China to pay 70 per cent of 1961 costs.

The resolution would have countries whose public and private interests in the Congo exceed $1,000,000 pay 25 per cent, with the remaining five per cent being divided among all other UN nations.

The U.S. has promised to make voluntary contributions above its regular assessment for 1961, while Britain and Canada have made their 1960 payments. Canada's total, including a $1,000,000 voluntary contribution to the civilian operation, came to nearly $3,500,000.

Kennedy's Visit Answers De Gaulle's Algerian Foes

PARIS (Reuters) — President Kennedy's decision to pay a state visit to France, announced Monday, is regarded as coming at the most critical stage in the presidency of Charles de Gaulle.

Kennedy, accompanied by his wife, will visit France May 31 to June 2 and the Algerian war is expected to figure largely in his talks with de Gaulle.

French government officials see the visit as a promise of U.S. support for the French president, beset by critics of Algerian policy.

Diplomatic circles here had considered Kennedy's visit as certain to complete the round of consultations arranged for this week and next between Kennedy, Prime Minister Macmillan and Chancellor Adenauer.

It is hoped here the Algerian rebels will see Kennedy's visit as a demonstration that, while they may have the backing of Moscow, France has the backing of Washington.

Director Urged For Education Of B.C. Adults

VANCOUVER (CP)—A conference of local directors of adult education and school trustees decided here Monday that B.C. needs a provincial director of adult education to keep pace with developments.

The province already has a director of community programs and a director of technical and vocational education in the department of education but Jack Dalgleish, Greater Victoria adult education director, said this isn't enough.

STANDARDS NEEDED

He said a provincial director is needed to provide over-all planning in an age when higher standards of education are becoming necessary to get jobs.

Mr. Dalgleish said that in spite of the bad unemployment picture in B.C., there are jobs available to people with higher education.

Workers must be taught to use properly the increased leisure they've been gaining.

He said a big proportion of today's voters are using the lower educational standards of 25 years ago to base the vital decision on who should govern them in an atomic age. Their education, which is equivalent to present day Grade 9, must be upgraded.

More than 60 teachers and trustees attended the conference, the first provincial meeting in the last six years.

STUDY NEEDS

The conference, which winds up today, will set up a committee to study in detail the needs of adult education and make recommendations as to how best it can be improved.

The delegates reached three other main conclusions:

- There must be more financial assistance from the government for adult academic training. At present, the government pays about 30 per cent of the academic program, while it pays 65 per cent of the vocational program.
- School boards should appoint part-time directors to set up programs and "get people away from television sets."
- Teachers of adults themselves need better qualifications.

H. M. Palsson, vice-principal of Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School in Sooke, has been nominated for first vice-president, and Donald A. Smith, principal of Esquimalt Junior High is a candidate for the post of second vice-president.

'Big Two' Parley Starts Tomorrow

Lord Home Arrives for Laos Talks

NEW YORK (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, expressing hope for a truce in Laos, arrived in New York last night en route to a "big two" Washington conference on all East-West problems by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Home flew here by jet airliner from London. During an airport news conference before proceeding on to Washington for talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, he said that the Macmillan-Kennedy talks due to start Wednesday would cover "the widest possible ground, including all the questions involved with Europe and the NATO alliance."

He said he would meet with Rusk today, reportedly to draft a reply to the Russian note on Laos.

"I have thought for some time that a political settlement (in Laos) ought to be to the advantage of the Russians and everyone else," he said.

The Russian note gives an opening, he said, "to go about achieving a political solution." While Britain recognizes the Boun Oum government, he said, "we have made it clear that a part of the settlement would be a broadened national government."

BUFFER STATE

In any case, Home said, he opposes a divided Laos because the western section would serve as a buffer state between east and west.

"The fact that the projected international conference between east and west will be held within the framework of the Geneva conference, he said, presupposes a united and independent Laos.

"This is one of the great advantages of holding the conference within the framework of the Geneva conference," he said.

INDEPENDENT

"I wouldn't think that the objective for anyone would be to win. What we want is to get a genuinely independent and genuinely neutral country so that it could work out its political future without any interference from outside."

Before leaving London, Home said a political settlement in Laos would provide the best way to restore peace there. He said the Laotians should be allowed to settle their own internal affairs.

"We always thought that a political settlement was possible in the Laos dispute," he said before leaving London. "I think that is the right answer. And we think that more and more people are thinking the same way.

"A cease-fire is essential because talks could not go on subject to military pressure. There is no difference of opinion between the Russians and ourselves on the matter."

Home said he would meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk for preliminary talks on Laos before Kennedy and Macmillan confer on Wednesday.

The Achilles Heel

PESSIMISTS have sometimes wondered if the United Nations could last; if it would not go the way of its predecessor the League of Nations. Probably this was because too much was expected of it; a feeling that with its creation the threats to world peace would vanish. So they might did all member states live up to their UN obligations. Unfortunately they don't.

Few if any UN members would want to see the world body fold up, even if sometimes they act against its best interests. It is a prized centre where they may express themselves; it is a sounding board for world opinion. It is a diplomatic clearing-house unlike anything known before. It is in fact a safety valve, where nations substitute talk for unilateral action. For all its weaknesses it carries weight and imposes restraint.

It has one severe Achilles' heel, however. The member states, or at least a considerable number of them, won't pay their dues and assessments. Were it not the United Nations, in fact, with a high credit rating; and an "angel" standing by, the world organization would be bankrupt and out of business.

The angel is the United States, which assumes the biggest part of the UN budget, and which has promised to salve the financial predicament of the UN's Congo force. The U.S. is also the main bulwark of the regular UN yearly budget, and without its generous contribution the world body couldn't function.

Britain has dropped the warning that if the defaulting member states don't pay up better the UN "may soon be finished in every sense." This accompanied its payment of all its 1960 assessment. Canada is another nation which meets its obligations, and has paid its due share of the extra Congo costs.

By contrast the Latin-American nations suggest they should make only token Congo payments and leave the main burden to the major powers. The paradox here is that they would not agree that he who pays the piper should call the tune; that if the U.S. for example footed most of the bill it should have the most to say about the operation.

Some UN member states obviously want to have their cake and eat it too; to shirk the financial onus the Charter puts on them but nevertheless to be free to impede the efforts of those states which meet their obligations. The Soviet bloc is the chief offender, refusing en masse to pay a cent towards the Congo operation, yet accusing the U.S. of dictating the terms.

In fact the Charter decrees that all members agree to support Security Council decisions in the exercise of world peace, and the Congo operation is deployed in pursuit of that aim. All would be well no doubt if no money was involved, but as with private lives and national duties it takes money to support any action of the UN.

Peculiarly many members states will not face up to this, expecting apparently that the U.S. will always come to the rescue. They should not assume that this procedure can go on indefinitely. And if the U.S. followed their example of not paying their dues or special assessments the UN would indeed be bankrupt and for all practical purposes finished.

A Time for Praise

FORTY-FIVE young and idealistic University of Toronto students have volunteered to provide the backward areas of India and Ceylon with technical assistance in the fields of education and agriculture in exchange for a mud hut and $5 a week.

Though the first 10 volunteers have been chosen from the University of Toronto, indications are that the movement is likely to grow throughout Canada. Quebec's Laval University is interested and a similar program is being considered by the University of British Columbia.

The organization will be known as the "Canadian Overseas Volunteers" and will be privately sponsored to meet the estimated $2,000 a year needed by each volunteer for transportation, insurance and equipment.

Already regarded, none too flatteringly, as a "small scale version of the U.S. peace corps" or the "poor man's Colombo plan," the organization is convinced that the over-all cost for each volunteer will amount to less than one-fifth of the cost of maintaining a regular Colombo plan expert and his family abroad for one year.

Whatever the cynics and professional pooh-poohers may say of the scheme—and say it they will—the fact remains that whether or not it attains its high goal it gives ample proof that our young men and women are still willing to make sacrifices for the sake of their ideals.

In turning their backs on the material comforts the majority of us have come to look upon as important above all else, these young people have set their fellow Canadians a fine example.

Too often we are quick to criticize the youth of our country. Today they deserve our praise.

In Gloom, Some Brightness

MAYOR Percy Scurrah's reluctant conclusion that the end of Victoria's "pay as you go" practice is in sight undoubtedly has caused more regret than surprise. To observant taxpayers it must have been clear for a long time that, with mounting pressure for major capital outlays, the city cannot reasonably hope to emulate the province and continue to reduce its direct debt until it has none.

It is to the credit of the city manager and the councils of the last 10 years that Victoria has attained a place of distinction among Canadian cities by reducing its net indebtedness by nearly one-half in that period, so that while a decade ago it was at, if not beyond, the limit of its borrowing power, it could now borrow more than $14,000,000.

Victoria has been able to follow this course, however, only because 10 years ago it had thousands of pieces of valuable property which the administration decided to sell at best possible prices to provide money for capital outlays. Now most of the land has been sold, and most of the money used to the great benefit of present and future taxpayers, on such things as the Point Ellice bridge and the Yates Street headquarters fire hall.

Victoria is not growing in the sense that Saanich is growing; it is a fully developed city and not plagued as younger municipalities are by the necessity of installing and extending costly services. But it has reached the stage where to stay alive economically it must undertake some redevelopment. Its traffic arteries and its business heart are growing congested. It needs expensive surgery.

Borrowing seems to be the only course left open, but even in the gloom of that conclusion there is some brightness. Borrowing is fair, because redevelopment will benefit the taxpayers not only today but throughout the term of repayment and probably beyond. And because of its prudence in the last decade, Victoria may be able to borrow at lower rates than many municipalities.

End of U.K. Spending Spree

By DAVE OANCIA, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OUTWARDLY, Britain glows with the healthy look of prosperity.

People throng through the shopping centres. The stores they browse in are filled with greater quantities and greater varieties of goods than ever before.

They display an almost unprecedented fascination for the "new" and "better" goods — an attitude that was once considered something of a vice indulged in only by over-rich Americans and Canadians.

Now a government white paper suggests that the British people may have been on a spending spree for more than a year.

The treasury publication, a sober account of income and expenditures, shows the balance of payments deficit in 1960 plummeted to £344,000,000. This compares with a surplus of £51,000,000 in the previous year.

The white paper will almost certainly have a telling effect on next month's budget. The conclusion most authorities reach is that there will be little room for tax relief for the average Briton.

The National Institute of Economic and Social Research has concluded that "an expansionary budget" now would be too risky. It might fuel the fires of inflation and hamper Britain's competitive position in world markets.

The institute, an independent research organization, feels a strongly inflationary budget — one which would restrict the amount of money available for spending — might restrain the demand for imports enough to correct the payments position for the time being.

"But it would almost certainly be so restrictive as to cut off expansion entirely," the organization adds.

"A neutral budget therefore seems the most likely choice in a situation of unfortunate dilemmas."

Both The Economist and the Guardian of Manchester stress that what now is needed is an encouragement of export-mindedness among businessmen.

For the average Briton, this may mean another period of penny-pinching and careful budgeting before there can be another spending spree.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

A READER, apparently thinking yours truly to be an expert on the subject — an erroneous notion — writes to ask which is correct when applied to a person: Scots or Scotch? And it is peculiar that he should do so; for just a couple of days ago I read the opening sentences of Hugh MacLennan's latest book of essays.

And in passing he gives his opinion on this question. The concatenation of events at work, you see.

Now I will say I was surprised at Mr. MacLennan. He is a Canadian of three generation Scots vintage, I think he said; but he prefers the term Scotch, which wouldn't matter except that he rather sneers at the former term.

This, he says, is simply the modern "genteel" way of putting it.

I shouldn't think so, myself, believing as I do that personal and place names and racial tags are very much a matter of individual taste and usage. I have a book which lists 50 different ways of spelling MacIntosh, for instance.

But I hardly think it likely that when the Edinburgh Scotsman was founded, something like 150 years ago, it eschewed "Scotchman" because it was trying to be polite. I fancy it reflected historical accuracy rather than social snobbism.

Mind you, the accuracy may be clouded. One could assume that Sir Walter Scott was an unchallenged expert, since he put the historic associations of his native land on the public map. He used both Scots and Scotch with catholicity and abandon.

Or so I seem to remember. I have his Waverley Novels at home but, alas, I haven't dipped into them recently.

On the other hand the supreme arbiter of such things, the Lord Lyon in Edinburgh—a person I should hate to gainsay—most distinctly in his books on Highland lore never says Scotch. Possibly the latter is reserved for the potions he serves his guests. It is this connotation, by the way, that helps to orient me towards Scots. One does not like to be confused with a drink.

* * *

If I remember correctly, too, the Lyon cites Scotland as such and never as Scotchland, which seems to be a pointer of worth. And who ever heard that fateful lady, Mary, called Queen of Scotch? Not even John Knox, who dreamed up some fancy terms for his monarch, thought of that one. Nor did Robert Burns title his famous song "Scotch Wha Hae".

There are ancient documents extant, I believe, which cite Scots or Scottish but not Scotch, perhaps because the kind of Scotch favored in the liquor stores hadn't yet been refined. My own quite unsupported notion is that Scotch only came in when whisky came out.

Louis XII of France, when he issued letters of naturalization for the whole Scottish nation in France, referred to "the service the Scots rendered". Alexander Pope said "the Scots will fight for Wallace as for God".

But as I suggested it is all a matter of preference. If Mr. MacLennan wants to call himself Scotch, or of Scotch descent, the heather will not lie down in affront nor will there be reason to raise a claymore.

Scots, though, or Scottish, seem to me to be more felicitous; not genteel but euphonious.

I suppose a Scotsman could be called a Scotian, which is a nice poetic appellation. After all the Nova Scotians have adopted that way of describing themselves, but then it wouldn't be fair to rob them of this distinctive term. Mr. MacLennan, by the way, is a Nova Scotian.

Felicity, I think, has everything to do with the names people call themselves. England is England and a native of Shakespeare's isle could, I suppose, term himself an Eng. except that this sounds dreadful and Englander isn't half so euphonious as Englishman. The apt term for a native of Canada, too, is Canadian.

I wouldn't presume to dogmatize, but since he asks me, my suggestion to my reader is to prefer Scots to Scotch. When referring to people, I mean.

A Look at Canada

One-Sided Bilingualism

By ARNOLD TOYNBEE, from Ottawa

AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING Canadian in the United States is in the same fortunate position as a Scotsman in England. He need not feel as if he were a foreigner, because he will not be treated as one. But, if the question did arise, he could be confident of holding his own.

Canadian education, for instance, need not fear comparison with American; and the contingent of Scottish professors in English universities has its parallel in American universities; for here professors of Canadian origin are no less conspicuous. In fact, the English-speaking Canadian, in his personal relations with his American fellow human beings, will not have the unpleasant experience of being treated as a lesser breed that sometimes overtakes a Latin-American or an Asian visitor to Anglo-Saxondom.

This is agreeable for the English-speaking Canadian, but it does not dispose of the problem of his country's relation to the United States. The English-speaking Canadian is the American's unquestioned equal in personal status, but the disparity between the two countries in economic, political and military strength is extreme. Canada is not the only Western country that is now tied up with the American giant. But Canada's geographical position as the next-door neighbor of the United States makes the tie far closer for Canada than it is for Britain, France or Germany. The potential embarrassment that is inherent in this peculiarly close tie is giving rise to anxieties on the Canadian side.

* * *

Since the Second World War the implications of being the United States' neighbor have been underlined for Canada by two new developments, one military and the other economic. The change in the military situation is that the North Pole has ceased to be an insulator. It now offers the shortest route between the United States and the Soviet Union for intercontinental missiles and for long-distance bombing planes; and Canada lies in the fairway.

Canada's situation, between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., now resembles Belgium's situation between Germany and France. The Canadian "Polish corridor" between 48 States of the American Union and the 49th State, Alaska, has now turned Western Canada into one of the principal lines of military communications between key strategic areas of her neighbor's territory.

The new economic fact is that Canada's economy is being developed at an unprecedented pace. This is being done largely by the investment of U.S. capital. Without this external stimulus the present pace of Canada's economic growth could not be maintained. And one of the effects is to put Canada economically in her neighbor's power. This is true of the whole Canadian economy, but particularly true of the opening-up of her mineral resources in her Arctic territories.

These new military and economic facts are causing heart-searchings in Canada. Canadians are asking themselves whether, in this formidable combination of new circumstances, Canada will be able to preserve her separate national identity. Of course there is no question of her losing her juridical sovereign independence. The fear is that this might be reduced to an empty formality, and that, de facto, Canada might become a military and economic dependency of the United States.

The Canadians who are worrying about this today are mainly English-speaking Canadians. This is natural because they come into more intimate contact with the United States and her citizens than French-speaking Canadians.

* * *

The French Canadians' anxieties are a replica of the English Canadians'. They are wondering whether they can succeed in preserving their community's separate identity against English-speaking neighbors who surpass them both in numbers and in economic power. Canada's chief domestic problem is, in fact, a counterpart of her chief external one.

In Canada's domestic life the inequality between the two language groups is symbolized in the fact that the French Canadians are mostly bilingual, at any rate in Montreal and in other commercial and industrial centres, whereas a bilingual English Canadian is a rare bird. He is not non-existent. In Montreal, for instance, an English-speaking lawyer must be able to plead in French as well as in English in the courts. But, on the whole, bilingualism is one-sided.

The urban French-speaking community has to be bilingual willy-nilly, because English is the language of all large-scale businesses. This is an economic necessity to which French Canadians capitulate, but at the same time it is a necessity that they resent. If their English-speaking fellow-countrymen were to reciprocate, their resentment would, no doubt, subside. What they object to is not the compulsion to learn a second language but the badge of inferiority which their bilingualism constitutes on account of its being a non-reciprocated attainment of theirs.

The English-speaking Canadians would do well to take their cue from the German-speaking Swiss, who make a point of knowing French and speaking it to their Francophone Swiss compatriots. Mutual linguistic courtesy is one of the social bonds that hold the Swiss people together.

It is inconceivable that this trilingual country should lose its separate identity by being absorbed into any one of its three great neighbors that are speakers respectively of each of Switzerland's three national languages. In Switzerland today even the Ladin (sic) language, which is spoken by a bare 10,000 Swiss citizens, has the same official status as German, French and Italian. If the English-speaking Canadians could bring themselves to become bilingual this would fuse the Canadians into one united nation whose distinctive future would be assured.

Unhappily, there is no prospect, at present, that the English-speaking Canadians will take the other Canadian national language seriously. Even the English-speaking minority in Montreal remains, for the most part, obstinately monolingual. It insists that the French-speaking Montrealers shall talk English when members of the two linguistic communities meet.

One unspoken, and perhaps unformulated, assumption underlying this linguistic arrogance is that English is the standard language of the North American continent and that French is a tiresome local lingo of Quebec province which can be disposed of by being discountenanced and ignored. But the English-speaking Canadians will hardly be able to have it both ways. If they are to save Canada's national individuality, they must make up their minds to be as hospitable to the French language as the German-speaking Swiss are. If they were to succeed in driving the French language out of currency they would be promoting the absorption of Canada by her gigantic English-speaking neighbor, the United States.

Reports From Ottawa

ELECTION-WARY politicians of all parties are watching and waiting with keen anxiety as Prime Minister Diefenbaker makes up his mind about by-elections in the four vacant House of Commons ridings.

If he announces dates for these by-elections, it will be taken as a sign that there will be no general election in 1961. If he doesn't, the already jittery political organizers will put even more effort into preparing for a national vote this year.

Conservatives in Esquimalt-Saanich, the British Columbia riding formerly represented by the retired defence minister, George Pearkes, are confident of winning and eager for an early vote. Recently their candidate, George Chatterton, called upon Diefenbaker here, reported his readiness and eagerness, and tried to get the PM to give him an inkling of when the by-election would be called. He failed.

Chatterton was told that while the Tories in Esquimalt-Saanich may be prepared, those in Leeds, Ont.; Restigouche-Madawaska, N.B., and Kings, P.E.I., may not be, and that the by-elections would not be called before these three reported "ready". But whether the by-elections will be called then is still the Prime Minister's secret.

* * *

The tendency of by-elections to go against the government is a good solid reason for Diefenbaker to avoid these tests of public opinion if he can conveniently do so. The Tories' loss of three out of the four by-elections last October 31 has been interpreted by the Conservatives as little more than a petition of grievance addressed to the P.M., but by the Grits and Socialists as a clear indication that the voters will "turn the rascals out" in the next general election. The truth is probably somewhere between the two extremes.

Nevertheless, in certain circumstances the government can do itself more political harm by avoiding by-elections than by risking them. Avoidance begets criticism that the government is deliberately leaving citizens unrepresented in Parliament, and makes people think it is afraid to submit to the test of public opinion. This would not be a favorable image for a government that is not far from a general election.

* * *

Liberals are optimistic about their chances of winning in Restigouche-Madawaska, the riding left vacant by the resignation of the maverick Tory Charlie Van Horne. They think their chances are good in Leeds, and a toss up on P.E.I. They really have little hope in Pearkes' old riding, but there the resurgent Social Crediters might knock out the confident Chatterton.

Inasmuch as all four seats were Conservative in 1958, the P.M. has little to gain and a good bit to lose by risking his party's prestige in a "little general election" not long before a real general election.

Much simpler and less risky, he might decide, to call it four years since 1957 and go for broke some time between June and October. That would make by-elections unnecessary.

Thus the question of who might or might not win these four vacant seats is of secondary importance right now. The important question is whether the Prime Minister calls these by-elections, or whether, by failing to, he commits all M.P.'s to seek re-election this year.

Witchcraft

Only Honest Tea Leaves

From The Ottawa Journal

PRACTISING witchcraft is perfectly legal in Canada. But pretending to is a crime.

This was the ruling of a Montreal judge who dismissed charges of fraud against a woman who told fortunes for a fee. He said that the Criminal Code, since its revision in 1955, forbade only "fraudulent" fortune telling. And he found no evidence that the soothsayer had not said the sooth.

Only time can furnish that evidence, or evidence to the contrary. One is innocent until proven guilty. So the seer who takes the long view has much leeway. If any doubt that time would ever prove a fortune teller right, they might remember that Voltaire, not noted for gullibility, had to say:

"If, of two astrologers consulted on the life of a child and on the weather, one says the child will live to manhood, the other not; if one announces rain and the other fine weather, it is clear that one of them will be a prophet."

From the Scriptures

But as truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord.—Numbers, 14:21.

The Packsack

Footloose Instinct

By GREGORY CLARK

A SPECTACULAR feature of the National Sportsmen's Show last month was the display of motor camping equipment of every conceivable variety. It looks as if we are to become a nation of nomads. There were small compact trailers, about the size of the old-fashioned luggage trailers, which when opened up, expanded like those Japanese paper flowers, into tents sprung on umbrella-like ribs, equipped with beds, chairs, screened porches, gas stove and ingenious folding tables. Three or four of the motor manufacturers are presenting cars like diminutive lorries that are in fact regular little picnic caravans, and one or two are in themselves equipped in miniature the way the big old clumsy housetrailers were furnished.

Elaborate tents are now done up in packages small enough to go in car trunks along with the luggage. All that the generation-before-last learned about camping in the days of the canoe and the pack horse has been converted mostly cleverly to the needs of the motorized generation.

Camping skipped a generation or two in favor of the summer hotel, the motel, the summer cottage. But a footloose instinct in millions of us is now being satisfied by a new twist to the industry that gave us the outboard motor and other revolutionary aids to perambulation.

Letters to the Editor

Land Value Taxes

I appreciate your editorial in respect to tax concessions to homeowners who improve their properties. I believe both of our Victoria MLAs have signified their approval of this idea.

Hundreds of books and thousands of articles have been written advocating land value taxation. Magazines are published in Canada, the U.S., England, Australia and many other countries in support of the principle that land values and not improvements should be taxed.

One of the best treatises on this subject was the brief submitted some years ago to the Cameron commission on educational costs in B.C. by Mr. E. S. Woodward, journalist, economist, lecturer and formerly an alderman in Victoria for many terms. . . .

It is significant that in Dr. Cameron's report he warns that if the increases in value of rural properties are not taken for educational costs that they will be taken by the land speculators.

Philanthropic Group

In your last issue of the "Islander" a photograph appeared of a lady being lowered into the Naden swimming pool by one of our hydraulic patient lifters which was specially designed and built by us for this pool.

Unfortunately, through a typographical error, our organization was referred to as a "Company" which indicates that it is a commercial business.

We would appreciate it if you would publish this letter to clarify the situation that we are a purely philanthropic organization which does not sell or rent any equipment. It is all loaned to assist any physically handicapped person without any charges or strings of any kind, as long as they need it.

Our organization is entirely fianneed and operated by private individuals in an honorary capacity to make our equipment available. It does not receive any of its funds from public subscription or from tax payments through government grants, etc.

Anyone can apply to us regarding this equipment.

SYDNEY PICKLES, President,
The Handicapped Equipment Supply Association.

Whites Cut Adrift

Now that the fuss has died down over the Progressive Conservative political victory in forcing the Union of South Africa out of the British Commonwealth of Nations, what now is the situation?

This move has cut adrift some 12,000,000 white people in a land of colored races. Has this helped the black races of South Africa? On the contrary, we read now that things are harder now than ever before. It is not a matter of kicking Dr. Verwoerd's government out of the Commonwealth, but the white and colored people for all time to come.

Would it not have been better for Canada to have gone along with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain to be patient and try to work out a plan to keep South Africa within the family of the Commonwealth Nations? It should be remembered that in two world wars South Africa played an important part in the winning of those wars. . . .

Tear Down City Hall

Why are the city fathers so anxious to do away with the cluster lights? These light standards were installed at a considerable expense, and were meant to be ornamental, more than for street-lighting purpose; however, they can supplement them if they think that more light is necessary.

There are much more important matters for the city council to rack their minds with; if they must tear something down, just start on the old city hall, now so antiquated and so far beyond repair. It is disgraceful to see such matters being overlooked, while petty matters take up so much of their time.

I can suggest a small project for the city council to consider: they could re-activate the old Victoria West fire hall, this would be more functional than the construction of a new fire hall on Turner Street, and far less costly; then develop a new city park on the block bordered by Pleasant, John, Turner and Esquimalt Road.

I am positively bewildered by all that is going on in and around the city hall.

ARTHUR LEVY.

Keep the Clusters

Having visited Victoria many times, I have loved the place from afar. Now I contemplate living here. I cannot innumerate all the things I appreciate, there being so many. Perhaps though, first of all comes the honest endeavor of all to be helpful, the genuine courtesy in fact, that abounds. The city comes next in my affections to Bournemouth, which is saying something. However, it does distress me to think that there are those who would actually do away with the lovely clusters of street lamps. Oh! do not let that happen.

(Mrs.) VERA C. NICHOLSON.

Replace the Clusters

I was quite pleased and happy to read in your Thursday morning edition of the Colonist about the "Proposal Revived to Scrap" the cluster lights in downtown Victoria.

Myself, I still cannot see where people get the idea that they are "picturesque"; perhaps they were, 25 or 30 years ago, but after all this is 1961, the time of progress, and I feel that if a city like Victoria is going to be recognized, it should be modernized; to some extent . . .

I have to go along with what Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow said, about them being a hazard. I too think they are a hazard, particularly to the motor car traffic, as they sure do give inadequate light.

I strongly feel, if the public works committee has proven to the city council, and to the public, that the new mercury-vapor lamps are going to be cheaper to operate, and maintain, they should definitely be given the O.K. to go ahead with their plans to replace the "out-dated" cluster lamps in downtown Victoria. In fact, when is there a better time to do it than the present, while this underground wiring is being done?.

Columbia Treaty

The Social Credit govrenment of B.C. is suffering from a swollen head. It has become so arrogant that it denies the right of the people to hear reports that rightfully belong to the public.

Why, for instance, should the Crippen-Wright report on plans for the development of the Columbia River be kept secret for the lame excuse that it would not be in the best interests of the people to know about it? The Columbia belongs to Canada, not to Mr. Bennett.

Does Mr. Bennett think he is now a dictator and owns this province to play his own games with? He has already made himself party to the treaty, which the people will soon realize is the most disastrous blunder ever to befall Canada.

The politicians, for some temporary expediency that will serve to keep them in power, have brain-washed the people to believe that the Columbia River Treaty means progress. They have been kept blindfolded to the stark fact that it will also mean devastation of 60,000 acres of the best land in the province, now producing a wealth of produce. It will be lost to us for all time by flood. It will also mean the loss of their homes and industries to thousands of people. . . .

Neither Diefenbaker nor Bennett have any right whatever to enter into such a vital commitment without putting it to the vote and first informing the people of all he pros and cons.

D-Day Rites Will Honor Canadians

BAYEUX, France (AP) — The French landings commemoration committee Monday decided that 1961 ceremonies marking the anniversary of D-Day landings in Normandy would be conducted in the Canadian sector.

Special ceremonies will be held at the landing points of Bernieres and Saint-Aubin-sur-Mer and the Canadian cemeteries at Benys and Reviers. Victoria's Canadian Scottish was among the first units to land.

The committee will invite high-ranking Canadian officials and widows of 40 Canadian soldiers as guests.

Five Children Die In Easter Blaze

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—Five of Mrs. Delores Johnson's seven children—including one for whose mistreatment she served a probation term—died in an Easter Sunday fire at their home.

Mrs. Johnson, 30, escaped with two by smashing a window. Neighbors held her when she tried to rush back for the others.

FOUR TRAPPED

Four of the children who lost their lives were trapped at the top of a stairway leading to their bedrooms. The fifth was found downstairs. One of those who died was Debra, 4.

When Debra was a baby, Mrs. Johnson punished her for playing with matches by holding the child's hands over an open gas flame. For this she was convicted of cruelty and placed on probation.

"I tried to get back in the window but couldn't," Mrs. Johnson sobbed after the fire.

Dying with Debra were Donna Jean, 9; Allen Dale, 6; Andrew Darrell, 4, and Jeffrey James, three months.

Mrs. Johnson escaped with Diane Mary, 2, and Darlene, 11.

The mother, separated from her husband, had taken the children Easter shopping the day before on welfare money.

Traders Busy On Wall St.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rolled up its broadest trading record in history and its heaviest volume in more than five years.

Volume rose to 6,470,000 shares and was the largest since 7,720,000 shares changed hands Sept. 26, 1955, on news of former president Eisenhower's heart attack.

Prices held to a mixed pattern but American Telephone ran up an advance of 9⅛ to an all-time high of 130. It closed at 127¾, up 6⅞ for the day.

Rubbers, electronics, utilities and oils moved ahead. Steels, motors and aircrafts were mixed. Chemicals, rails and tobaccos declined.

Oils Strengthen

MONTREAL (CP)—Advances outnumbered declines 74. Oil stocks were strong.

Among active stocks, Loeb improved 1⅛ at 14¾ on 12,210 shares. Rolland Paper A gained ½ at 8¼ on 7,625 shares.

General Bakeries rose 1¾ to 8⅞ to lead winners.

Base metals were ahead, International Nickel gained 1⅛ at 65⅞ and Canadian British Aluminium added ½ at 11½.

Moore Gains Two

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market was up and reached its highest volume in five months during heavy trading.

Foods did well as a group but pipelines were mixed.

Steady western oil trade produced a rash of small gains.

Copper Interest High

VANCOUVER—Interest remained keen in a number of B.C. coppers. Cowichan rose further to .38 and Bethlehem advanced to 1.19. Torwest found some support to close at .45½. Craigmont eased to 9.25 and Granduc to 2.85. Coast Copper, however, was strong at 4.75.

Oils were firm and higher with Pacific at $12½. Central Del Rio at 6.45 and Fargo at 3.90.

Northern Ontario Gas at $18 was a strong feature in industrials.

Trading on Holiday No Waste of Time

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A year ago Canadian brokerage houses were grumbling that it was a waste of time opening the stock exchanges in Canada when banks, trust and other financial institutions were on holiday.

But apparently it wasn't the holiday a year ago, but general stock market indifference, for yesterday when holiday conditions were the same, Canadian stock exchanges did a roaring business.

Here are some trading comparisons. A year ago the Toronto Easter Monday volume was 881,000 shares; yesterday it was 3,883,000, the highest in five months. Vancouver, which traded 30,000 shares a year ago, handled 315,833 this time.

Putting the spice into the Toronto trading was a rush to buy the common shares and warrants of Lorado Uranium Mines, a former uranium producer and custom smelter operation that closed down a year ago.

Lorado, after winding up its uranium business, was left with approximately $4,000,000 in current assets, and the news is that the company is now proposing to go into the real estate business.

This has sparked a new interest in the shares which in recent sessions have risen from about 45 cents to $1.24 yesterday. The warrants, recently worth only a few cents, traded up to .56.

Outstanding are 4,804,040 common shares and another 1,120,965 are reserved for issuance against exercise of warrants.

Yesterday when 421,150 shares changed hands, the market value rose .19 a share.

GAS OUTFLOW GROWS

Production of natural gas in British Columbia rose to a new monthly record in January when producers received $723,867 gross revenue from 8,592,473,000 cubic feet.

This compared with revenue of $609,272 from 7,346,237,000 cubic feet in January, 1960.

The month's total topped the previous record established in December, 1960.

BIRTHDAY FOR BANK

Seventieth birthday—but no old-age pension to go along with it—was celebrated in Victoria Saturday by the Bank of Montreal.

The Bank of Montreal opened its first branch in Victoria on Government Street on April 1, 1891, and the main office remained there until 1924, when it was moved to its present site on Douglas at Yates.

First manager was A. J. C. Galletly, and there have been only nine changes since. Most recent managers have been R. D. Mulholland, now the bank's general manager; Dugald MacGregor, and the incumbent A. E. Walters, who has been here since 1958.

OUTLOOK BETTER

A brighter outlook for the Canadian petroleum industry in 1961 is expected by E. D. Loughney, president of B-A Oil Company, with natural gas sales expected to be 30 per cent higher than in 1960.

Net profit of B-A Oil in 1960 was up 25 per cent from the previous year. It rose to $30,803,000 ($1.51 a share), compared with $25,602,000 ($1.25 a share) in 1959.

BEER SALES HIGHER

Sales are higher for two leading brewery firms making quarterly reports this week, but net earnings are little changed from a year ago.

Canadian Breweries reports sales for the quarter ended Jan. 31 were up 6.6 per cent at $76,981,337, while earnings were $2,322,635 compared with $2,243,591 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. Owing to a larger number of shares outstanding the earnings dropped to 55 cents a share from 65 cents.

John Labatt Ltd. sales were also up 6½ per cent at $17,700,000 for the same period, while earnings were $473,000 (33 cents) against $476,000 (33 cents) a year ago.

HARBOR PROJECT

Appeal Deportation

Cubans Land In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian immigration department Monday ordered the deportation of nine Cubans who arrived here Sunday aboard a British Overseas Airways Corporation flight from Kingston, Jamaica.

The Cubans appealed immediately, delaying execution of the order. The case now will be considered by the immigration department's appeal board in Ottawa.

They were released pending the board's decision, but must report daily to immigration authorities here.

NEW YORK (AP)—Political asylum was granted Monday to a group of Cuban refugees whose plane, en route to Montreal from Kingston, Jamaica, was diverted to a landing here because of weather conditions.

P. A. Esperdy, district director of the immigration and naturalization service, said four men, three women and two children were granted asylum. They were aboard a British Overseas Airways Corporation flight which landed at Idlewild Sunday.

Further checks will be necessary before it is determined whether four other men in the group will be permitted to remain in this country, Esperdy said.

The "Canadian," George Badgett, 28, gave his address as Dawson Creek, B.C.

Dawson Creek police last night said they know the man, but he is not Canadian.

Anti-Castro Mutineers Seek Haven

HAVANA (UPI)—At least 10 Cuban naval officers reported involved in a weekend navy mutiny against Communism in the Fidel Castro regime have sought refuge in Latin-American embassies here, it was disclosed yesterday.

The government was reported to have broken up the counter-revolutionary plot — the fourth by the navy since Castro came to power—but the Cuban army placed heavy guards at naval establishments to prevent further defections.

At least 300 sailors and officers were reported involved in the plot.

Political Units Plan Meeting

Nell Hindle Victoria CCF official, said the B.C.-Yukon section of the CCF party will hold a convention in Vancouver in May to discuss resolutions to be brought forward at the New Party convention in Ottawa in late July.

Autopsy Ordered In Mystery Deaths

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — The provincial attorney-general's department has been asked to conduct an autopsy on two bodies found at nearby Evian. Police found the bodies of Evani Bessent, 69, a cripple, and his 45-year-old housekeeper in Bessent's house. The two had been dead for two weeks.

wanted 200 new dentists NOW

British Columbia needs 200 new dentists – and needs them now. So acute is the shortage of qualified men that many areas of B.C. have no readily available dental service at all. And the trouble is – dentists are not trained overnight. It takes at least six years of intensive University study to become a dentist. Although the University of British Columbia does not as yet have a Dental Faculty, there are several excellent schools in Canada to provide such training. B.C. dentists have a big job on their hands. Are you willing to help? If so, write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As a Career. No other profession will offer you greater opportunities to help your fellow men. And none is quite so vital to your community now.

Powers Map Space Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain, France and the United States set up a joint program Monday to test communication satellites in the next few years.

The agreement calls for the establishment in Europe of ground stations to use satellites to transmit telephone, telegraph and television signals.

The satellites will be launched by the U.S. Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1962 and 1963.

John D Target

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Johannesburg newspapers have been deluged with letters—both pro and con—on the subject of South Africa's withdrawal from the Commonwealth and one of the hottest issues is Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Supporters of Prime Minister Verwoerd's decision to pull South Africa out of the Commonwealth in the face of opposition to his apartheid policies at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference accuse Diefenbaker of joining those who are "selling the whites down the river."

One letter in the Johannesburg Star from a writer in nearby Vereeniging who signed himself "good advice" read:

"I suggest that all patriotic white South Africans start a fund to sponsor the emigration of black families to Canada. If this were done on a large scale it would relieve our problem here and there would be no need for apartheid."

Norway exported 6,800 tons of butter in 1960, an increase of 60 per cent over 1955.

Terror Probe Asked

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — Communist guerrillas have launched widespread attacks in what the South Viet Nam government believes is a campaign to upset presidential elections April 9, authoritative sources said Monday.

At the same time, the official government news agency said South Viet Nam has asked the international control commission to investigate terrorism in the South-east Asian country that borders Laos.

SECOND TERM

President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic and strong anti-Communist, is campaigning for a second term, having survived two abortive coups—one in 1955 and the second last November.

The Communists were reported to have called for an all-out program of sabotage, ambushes, and attacks on polling booths to hinder the elections, the sources said.

The government says it has inflicted heavy losses on the Communists in two provinces.

The sources said the Communists attacked in groups of up to 300 men, some armed with modern weapons.

Sahara Gets 200,000 Palms

PARIS (Reuters) — More than 200,000 palm trees have been planted in the Sahara desert in the last three years, the French government says. They are expected to double current production of high-quality dates within 10 years.

Foul-Up Slows All Italy

ROME, (UPI) — It wasn't much of a derailment. An empty second class coach jumped the rails in Rome's modernistic glass and concrete main railroad.

It appeared to be such a simple job. Railway decided not to call in a crane car from Florence where the nearest one was located. They used simpler methods.

They tried first to use a lifting jack resting against a power pole but had to abandon this method for fear the pole would come down.

Workmen shoved, pushed, grunted and wrestled the car back on the tracks. It took 13 hours and every railroad schedule in Italy was disrupted. By 3 a.m. when the car was replaced every train in Italy was running at least three hours late.

Finch Jury Undecided On Penalty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury deliberating whether to decree imprisonment or death for Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his pretty paramour, Carole Tregoff, was locked up Monday night after one hour and 58 minutes.

The jurors will resume deliberations today.

The state, in closing arguments, demanded that Finch, 43 and Miss Tregoff, 24, be given the death penalty.

Of Finch, one of the prosecutors said: "If ever there was a sadistic, evil maniac of the first water, it is Dr. Finch." Of Miss Tregoff, he added: "If it were not for Carole Ann Tregoff, Barbara Finch (Finch's wife, whom they are accused of murdering) would still be alive."

Something Told Boy To Kill His Mother

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—A 13-year-old boy sneaked up behind his mother while she was playing the organ Monday night and shot her in the back with a 12-gauge shotgun, Sheriff Harley Wornstaff reported.

The sheriff said Mrs. Lloyd Geiger, in her late 30s, was killed instantly.

Her son admitted the slaying, the sheriff said, after first claiming that a man walked into the house and shot his mother.

The boy was quoted as saying that something kept telling him to kill his mother.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Returns are all in and owner Jim Piggott, it has been proven, was unable to provide Victoria with the contending Western Hockey League club he had promised. He gets marks for trying but what he came up with was an outfit which was something like the little girl in the nursery rhyme—when it was good, it was very, very good and when it was bad it was horrid.

Unfortunately, as the 27-41-2 in the league tables show, the Cougars weren't good often enough. But the suspicion does exist that they did manage to finish ahead of two clubs which had superior talent, and there were quite a number of rousing games at Memorial Arena to prevent the season from being a real bust.

Whether the club-owner overestimated his talent, underestimated the strength of the league, was unable to get expected help or just decided to try and make his loss as small as possible is something only he knows. Whatever the reason, the conclusion has to be that the talent he handed over to coach George Agar did as well, perhaps even better, than could have been reasonably expected of it. Other club owners were unanimous in figuring the Cougars to be a last-place club and it had to be a starry-eyed supporter who expected anything better than a playoff spot when the club was assembled.

On that basis, the fact that they are seeing post-season action is actually a tribute to the Cougars. Although they did have the disconcerting habit of making one forget their good moments with periods of remarkable ineptitude, they did provide considerable good and entertaining hockey. They just lacked the depth of first-line talent to be more consistent.

* * *

The Cougars led a strange existence this season. They began in great style after a curtailed training-camp period by winning three of their first four games. After 12 games, they were 6-6 and four of their losses were by one goal and a fifth by two goals. As late as January 7, with the season almost half over, they were 16-16 with three in a row the closest thing they had to a win streak.

Then they lost four in a row and seven of their next nine, and everyone finally was able to think they had been right the first time. But the Cougars were a confounding club and when they tripped the Flyers, 6-3, in Edmonton on February 10, they were no worse than 22-24, a playoff spot was all but clinched and fifth place was within easy reach.

With this much accomplished, the Cougars promptly lost seven in a row and between Feb. 10 and March 7, won only once and tied twice in 13 games.

With sixth place almost lost, the Cougars turned around and swept home-and-home series against Spokane and Portland within a space of five games. With sixth place reclaimed, they floundered through six defeats in their last six games. It was the Vancouver Canucks, who badly wanted them for playoff opponents, who put the Cougars in by handing Edmonton Flyers the defeat which meant elimination for the Albertans.

* * *

This kind of performance hardly inspires confidence in the series against the defending champions yet had the Cougars been able to ice a physically-fit club, Canucks might have run into more trouble than they had bargained for. And they may in any event. The Cougars have shown that they can be dangerous when right, their pattern shows they may be about ready to be right again, and the Canucks are the playoff club the Cougars probably have the best chance of upsetting.

Canucks have the league's best and toughest defence, but they also have only three forwards who scored more than 20 goals and this season the Vancouver club outscored only the last-place Winnipeg Warriers.

Because of their defence-first approach, Canucks normally do not put on the sustained attacking pressure which so flusters the Victoria defence and if the Cougars are prepared to gamble by carrying the play, they have a chance for an upset. But they'll not come close trying to play it the Vancouver way. This was shown during the season when the Canucks won by 2-0, 4-0 and 5-0 in defensive-type hockey. When the Cougars forced the play, they won twice by 3-1, lost good efforts by 1-2, 2-4 and 6-8.

* * *

While hoping for the Cougars to surprise, keep an eye on the Spokane Comets. This is a club which is potentially better than its record and with Cesare Maniago back to tend goal, it is likely to pull an upset or two before the winner of the President's Cup is decided.

Comets have as good a set of forwards as any club in the league, their defence is truculent and has fair ability and if Roy McBride's outfit should decide to settle down and forget chippy hockey, it would be no surprise here to find it in the league final.

Comets should end the saga of the amazing Portland Buckaroos in the first round. The Spokane club has more good hockey players and working for it is a playoff schedule, made necessary because the Portland arena is unavailable for hockey after next Monday, which calls for the series to be played in six days if it goes the limit of five games. Being bigger, younger and tougher, this could be the big edge for the Comets.

Harder to figure is the semi-final set between Calgary Stampeders and Seattle. The league champions own a 5-2-1 record and have averaged five goals a game against the Sound City club but the Totems are the best in the league when in top form, and it seems they ended the season that way. If they can break even in Calgary, where they lost all four games this season, the Totems should meet either the Comets or the Canucks in the final.

* * *

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Canucks and Comets to open their series with wins and Montreal Canadiens to square their Stanley Cup semi-final. Batting average to date: At bat 77, hits 51, percentage .662.

Cougars' Prospects Dim Three Players Injured

Prospects never looked bleaker for Victoria Cougars than they did last night on the eve of their Western Hockey League quarter-final against Vancouver Canucks, but coach George Agar was still hopeful.

In view of the fact that his club had finished the season by losing its last six games and starts tonight with centre Barrie Ross and defenceman Don McLeod and Leo Amadio on the injured list, his attitude seemed like that of the fellow who whistled his way past the graveyard.

"You can never tell about us," Agar whished. "We always seem to play our best after a streak of our worst."

And while the records bear out that statement, it remains a fact that the Cougars won't be at their best if they can't ice their best lineup.

BRUISED SHOULDER

Most serious injury is the one owned by Ross. The smooth centre, a key player in the Victoria attack, was ridden into the boards by Frank ("Who Else?") Arnett in Sunday's windup game at Seattle and received a badly-bruised shoulder.

Agar reported last night that Ross was unable to lift his right arm and that it seemed unlikely that he would be able to play.

Amadio, who injured a thumb in a game against Portland Friday, will probably play but McLeod is a doubtful starter. The slender defenceman incurred a partial shoulder separation in Spokane Saturday when hit by rookie Bill McCusker.

Until it is known, and it won't be much before game time tonight, who will play, Agar won't know his lineup.

If Amadio and McLeod both make it, North will remain as a forward on a line with Doug Macauley and Doug Anderson which will probably be given the job of checking the Canuck power line of Larry Popein, Bruce Carmichael and Danny Belisle.

That would reunite Bill Saunders with Gerry Goyer and George Ford and a third line will have rookie Ed Lawson playing between Bert Fizzell and Jim Moro with Bill Johansen in reserve.

If North has to go back on defence, Johansen may have to take his place on left wing.

IN GOOD HEALTH

As far as is known, Canucks are all in good health although Agar was eagerly trying to track down a rumor that defenceman Larry Cahan was incapacitated.

"Too good to be true, though," he muttered.

Tonight's game at Vancouver will start at 9. The teams play here tomorrow night with game time at 8.30 and play the third game in Vancouver on Friday. If a fourth is needed, it will be here Saturday.

Lone Assist Gives Jones Point Title

Portland Buckaroos didn't exactly finish their Western Hockey League schedule in a burst of glory, but for centre Art Jones the ending couldn't have been nicer despite a 5-4 overtime loss to Spokane Sunday.

While the Bucks were losing a see-saw battle to the Comets, Jones collected an assist on their final goal, and the point was enough to give him the WHL scoring title with an even 100 points.

Jones, with 36 goals and 64 assists, beat out Calgary's Lou Jankowski by a single point. Jankowski, with a record-breaking 57 goals and 42 assists, was benched in Calgary's last game Saturday night in order to rest up for the playoffs.

In Sunday's other game, Victoria Cougars closed out their season by taking an 8-5 beating from the Totems in Seattle. Doug Macauley scored twice and Bert Fizzell, Bill Saunders and George Ford once for Cougars.

BRIGHT SPOT

Jones' effort was the one bright spot of a dismal weekend for the Bucks, who were shut out for the first time this season, 3-0, Saturday by Vancouver Canucks.

Sunday they spotted Spokane four goals in the first period, came back with four of their own in the second, then lost out to Comets at 6.13 of overtime on a goal by Bev Bell.

The clubs meet in a best-of-five quarter-final playoff, as do Victoria Cougars and the Canucks. Calgary plays Seattle in a best-of-seven semi-final.

Calgary coach Gus Kyle defended his action in benching Jankowski Saturday, saying the winger had a slightly pulled groin muscle. As it turned out, Kyle said he was glad he had done so because the game against Winnipeg was a wild one with 21 penalties.

Don Ashbee Pulls Surprise Withdraws Transfer Plea

VANCOUVER (Special) — Victoria's hopes for a contending team in the Inter-City Lacrosse League were dealt another crippling blow here last night when Don Ashbee unexpectedly withdrew his application to transfer to the club from Nanaimo.

Ashbee's startling move came at a meeting called by league commissioner Tommy Gordon to rule on several transfer applications. Ashbee was reached in Nanaimo by telephone after Gordon heard he wanted to withdraw, and Ashbee confirmed the report. He gave no reason for the request.

It was a bitter loss for Victoria, in the midst of a major rebuilding campaign. Ashbee was a league all-star last year, scoring 50 goals, and has long been one of the league's most colorful players.

However, Victoria did get one break, if the club can make use of it.

Transfer applications by Victoria players Stu Smith and Tom English (to Vancouver) and Paul Parnell (to New Westminster) were also turned down as Gordon ruled that in view of the Victoria situation "it is desirable that they stay with the club."

However it is another question whether or not they will play with Victoria. Parnell is established with his family in New Westminster. English's wife is in nursing training in Vancouver, and Smith, in the midst of studies at UBC, told Victoria coach Arnie Ferguson yesterday that if he could not play for Vancouver he would stay out of lacrosse this season.

Charlie Saunders and Mike Gates, junior stars with New Westminster who had applied for transfer to Victoria, were also turned down after New Westminster refused to give the permission required before juniors can transfer.

Only transfer granted was that of goalie Merv Schweitzer from New Westminster to Nanaimo.

Veterans Masters Choices

The smart money will be backing the veterans Thursday when the world's finest golfers start out on their 72-hole battle over Augusta National course in the annual Masters tournament.

Only once has an newcomer succeeded in his first try at the Masters, the prestige tournament of the U.S. professional trail. That was Horton Smith, who won it in 1934, the first year it was held. Since then it has been the golfers experienced at playing the massive and often deceptive 6,930-yard course that have taken the top money.

Despite conjecture yesterday that a sleeper could creep in if winds that gusted to 40 miles per hour continue, the veteran pros ruled as favorites with defending-champion Arnold Palmer topping them all.

Palmer has won twice in the past three years, and at 31 is the peak of his game. He has the long, hard-hitting type game needed to master the rugged course.

Nobody Can Score On Veteran Roberts

Veteran Robin Roberts, the most effective pitcher in Florida this spring, kept his scoreless streak intact but suffered a painful injury to his right ear Monday as Philadelphia Phillies went 16 innings for a 3-2 victory over New York in an exhibition baseball feature.

Roberts, unscored upon all spring, ran his string to 23⅓ innings before bowing out when a smash from the bat of Yanks' Clete Boyer took one hop and hit him on the right ear in the seventh inning.

The Phils' right-hander wobbled a bit from the blow but walked off the field before being taken to hospital for treatment to prevent a cauliflower ear.

Successive doubles by Tony Taylor and John Callison earned Phils ~~their~~ victory in the 16th over Yanks, who have an 9-16 exhibition record and have scored only three earned runs in their last 44 innings.

Frank Malzone, all-star third baseman of the Red Sox, suffered a sprained right ankle in the game with Cleveland sliding into second base. He's expected to be sidelined for a few days but should be ready for the opener next week.

Four teams begin shooting for the money next weekend as the Victoria and District Football League opens its playoffs with two sudden-death semi-finals.

League champion Evcoes meet Scottish at Royal Athletic Park Saturday and Kickers play Saanich Thistles at Heywood Park Sunday. Winners play off for first and second, losers for third and fourth, in sudden-death matches.

At stake is the Price Cup and a split of the playoff gate receipts. Top club gets 40 per cent; second team 30 per cent; third place club 20 per cent, and fourth place team 10 per cent.

League schedule ended Sunday, when Gorge Hotel blanked Brodie's, 3-0; Esquimalt and Nanaimo played to a 2-2 draw, and Evcoes shut out Ladysmith, 5-0.

George Paul scored two, Alex Stewart and Tim Walker got one each, and goalie Al Davies scored on a penalty kick for Evcoes. Two goals by Hal Holroyd and one by Kurt Lampert did the damage for Gorge, the hottest club in the leauge late in the season. The Gorgemen tied Scottish for fourth place, but missed a playoff berth on goal averages.

Esquimalt, which won only one game all season, got its second tie on goals by Jim Davidson and Paul Sunde.

With Harry Young

The scene moves to Oak Bay Sunday for the second round of the Vancouver Island match-play championship, and the host club golfers, who provided most of the fireworks in the opening round will have a chance of showing what they can do in home surroundings.

One match which looks to have all the thrill ingredients is the one in which assistant Victoria pro Roy Chappell faces holder Art Donaldson. Chappell hits the ball with tremendous power and on his day he can be nearly invincible, particularly on his own links, and the more seasoned Donaldson will have to have his short game working well to keep alive.

George Bigelow, whose fine uphill fight to beat Bill Wakeham in the opening round makes him a strong threat, may probably have too many guns for the 16-year-old Vic Derman, and if the doctor wins this one he will have to meet the winner of the Donaldson-Chappell match in the quarter finals at Colwood.

Another Victoria club hope, former champion Laurie Carroll, could have his work cut out to beat a very competitive Fred Ranson, while Ron MacLeod, who plays most of his golf at Victoria but who is entered from Qualicum Beach, plays Bob McLean, another member of the strong-going Oak Bay contingent.

If Ron and Laurie win these matches they will clash at Colwood next week.

Of the remaining 16 in the championship, the match between two former city champions, Norm Boden and Frank Scroggs, should be close while Dave Fanthorpe, who laid low George Andrews by hitting two birdies in the last four holes, is to meet Roger Ross, who also came from behind to beat Alex McCabe in the first round.

Laurie Kerr has a Colwood opponent in Joe Evans, while John Merriman, a Gorge hope, now meets Bob Ford of Uplands.

Architect's plans for a major reconstruction and extension of the clubhouse at Victoria Golf Club are at present on display at the club. Members are invited to express their views on the proposed $150,000 job at the forthcoming annual general meeting.

Information received from other west coast cities seems to point out that municipally-owned golf courses are not only extremely popular by providing good facilities at reasonable rates, but that they also make money for the taxpayers.

The Victoria District Golf Committee is hopeful of persuading the City-Saanich Parks Committee to develop and operate a nine-hole course at Elk Lake, but the city, which owns the property, has expressed doubts as to whether such a step would be a burden on the taxpayers.

In Vancouver, San Francisco and San Diego, where there are several municipally-owned courses, the experience is that even at low green fees these courses after a short break-in period all manage to show a profit.

The property at Elk Lake has already been planned and partly cleared and prepared for a nine-hole course, and it could be brought into operation at a comparatively reasonable outlay.

A meeting of the Victoria District Committee is being called for next Monday with a view to seeking a new approach to the City-Saanich Parks Committee.

Students at Victoria district high schools are reminded that applications for lessons by professional golfers should be made without delay. It is hoped that the course will start Monday, April 24.

The application forms are obtainable at greater Victoria junior and senior high schools.

Owing to the holidays these forms are not immediately available, but students wishing to file their entries are invited to enrol by visiting the secretary of the district committee, Leo Derman at Gorge Vale Golf Club. The registration fee is $1.

Job Looks Tough For Young Golfer

Vic Derman can't be blamed much if he feels a little like David tangling with Goliath Sunday when he heads for Victoria Golf Club and the second round of the Vancouver Island Match Play Open golf tournament.

Derman, the Gorge Vale 16-year-old who won the handicap title last year and beat clubmate George Murphy, one up, yesterday, has the unenviable task of facing Dr. George Bigelow on the doctor's home course. And the doctor served notice that he is in top form by downing medalist Bill Wakeham on the 18th green Sunday.

Wakeham was one of two former champions sidelined in the first round. Joe Briggs of Uplands, the 1956 winner, lost out, one up, to defending champion Art Donaldson.

However it was left to Norm Boden of Gorge Vale to provide the day's biggest upset, as he sidelined city junior champion Dick Munn on the 18th on the strength of his putting and a fine short game.

Although he was spraying his shots badly, Boden continually came up with great chip shots to recover, and Munn couldn't match him on the greens although he hit 13 of 18 compared to seven for Boden.

Only One Other Upset

In the only other result that could really be termed an upset, Gorge Vale's Dave Fanthorpe beat out Colwood's George Andrews, one up.

Others to advance were Derman, Roy Chappell, John Merriman, Bob Ford, Joe Evans, Laurie Kerr, Frank Scroggs, Ron MacLeod, Bob McKean, Fred Ranson and Dr. Roger Ross.

The Bigelow-Wakeham match drew the day's largest gallery. One down after nine holes, Dr. Bigelow improved steadily and came home two under par.

Wakeham dubbed his drive on the 18th after Bigelow had lost the 17th with a bogey five, and it carried only 125 yards. Bigelow got his par, and Wakeham missed a chance for the half when his long putt from the back of the green missed by a fraction of an inch.

Canadiens Grim in Practice Facing Elimination Tonight

Montreal Canadiens, chafing under the unaccustomed pressure of having to win or bow out of the Stanley Cup playoffs, snapped grimly through a 45-minute workout yesterday, then set out for Chicago and their date tonight with the high-flying Hawks.

It's a new, bitter feeling for Canadiens, this business of being behind in the NHL playoffs. Since coach Toe Blake took over, they have won five straight Stanley Cup playoffs, and have never been behind, either in final or semi-final. So they were in no mood to trifle yesterday.

Tonight's game will be televised on channels 2 and 6 at 7 p.m.

One of the most serious of all was big Jean Beliveau, who has yet to score in the semi-finals in 23 shots.

KNEE IN CAST

Only absentees were Bernie Geoffrion, who has an injured knee in a cast, and Ralph Backstrom, also out with a leg injury. Backstrom will make the trip, but Canadiens are also taking along Reggie Grigg, a farmhand from Montreal Royals.

"They know what they're up against without me telling them," Blake said before departing. "If they aren't up for this one they never will be."

HAWKS CONFIDENT

In Chicago, the Hawks were oozing confidence that they will win tonight and set up the first all-American Stanley Cup final since 1950, then win their first Stanley Cup since 1938.

Leading the best-of-seven series, 3-2, Hawks are in top shape, and coach Rudy Pilous told reporters he planned to make the team play the same brand of clean, hard hockey that carried them to a 3-0 win in Montreal Saturday.

He credited Saturday's win in a large part to a pre-game peptalk that ended with a stern warning that cheap penalties would result in disciplinary action.

If Canadiens win tonight the deciding game will be played in Montreal Thursday.

WINGS BASKING

While Canadiens and Hawks were preparing to resume hostilities, Detroit Red Wings were basking in the afterglow of their semi-final win over Toronto, and the Leafs were talking about next year.

One of the more notable quotes was from Toronto coach Punch Imlach. All along Imlach has told anyone who would listen that his Leafs would win it, and Red Wings claimed that Imlach's bragging played a great part in their upset win.

Apparently Imlach is convinced.

"I'm going to have to quit predicting things," he said.

Big Easter Weekend

Hotspur Strengthens Margin

LONDON (Reuters) — Tottenham Hotspur Monday clinched maximum points from its three Easter weekend games to strengthen its chance of bringing off the rare double of winning the English League football championship and the Football Association cup.

While Spurs were beating Chelsea once and Preston once, their nearest championship rival, Sheffield Wednesday, could collect only four points from three games.

After drawing with Blackburn and beating Newcastle, the league challengers slipped Monday when they were held to a 1-1 tie by lowly Newcastle.

Tottenham's 3-2 win at Chelsea Monday earned it a lead of five points with only five games to play.

Wolverhampton, only other team with any chance of the title, dropped out of the running Monday when beaten 2-1 at West Bromwich Albion. Wolves are nine points behind Spurs with only four games left.

The struggle against relegation from the first division remained as desperate as ever. Three of the four bottom clubs drew. The fourth, Blackpool, was beaten 2-0 by Manchester United and slumped to bottom place after holding fourth-from-bottom position on goal average.

The position at the bottom is: Manchester City (played 36), Newcastle (played 38), Preston (played 37)—all with 28 points; and Blackpool (played 37) with 27 points.

Oilmen Find Fossil Tomb

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—A graveyard of prehistoric beasts has been uncovered by U.S. and French oilmen drilling in the barren, lifeless desert of Cyrenaica. Ground around the well is thick with fossilized bones of mastodons, reptiles and various other creatures which roamed the earth millions of years ago.

Reds Watching at Holy Loch

GLASGOW (UPI) — The deputy leader of the British Labor party said Monday radio signals from Russian trawlers off the coast of Scotland have been picked up by monitors aboard the U.S. submarine tender Proteus.

George Brown spoke after a visit to the Proteus in the Holy Loch.

"Everyone on the ship knows the Russians are there and will be watching these ships coming in and out," Brown said. "The Proteus has picked up the signals. But the Americans are not perturbed."

Brown made the statement as reports circulated that counter-espionage agents were on the trail of a spy ring believed to be tracking U.S. Polaris submarines from a base in the hills around Holy Loch.

British monitors have picked up messages from a secret radio transmitter in the hills to the trawlers, which then may send the messages to Russia.

John Birch Leader

Ultra-Rightist 'Little Hitler'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stephen Young, Ohio Democrat, called the founder of the far-right John Birch Society a little Hitler, a Mussolini, a fake patriot and a slick demagogue.

The founder, Robert Welch, once described former president Eisenhower as "a dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

Young said any mercenary demagogue has the right to express opinions, though "discredited, unfounded and false." The John Birch Society, like similar organizations in the past will die "unwept, unhonored and unsung," he said.

But, while Young attacked the group on the floor of the senate, another congressman issued a statement in its defence.

Representative John Rousselot, a California Republican, said he joined it several months ago "because I believe that, in the main, the society is designed to oppose the Communist threat in a positive, legal and correct way.

In his speech, Young said Welch, a 61-year-old retired candy manufacturer from Belmont, Mass., "is succeeding handsomely in selling life memberships in his society for a thousand dollars each and raking in thousands of dollars every month in members' dues."

Confiscated Cheques In Court

BRANDON (CP)—Brandon Packers Ltd. cheques totalling more than half the $460,000 involved in conspiracy charges against two Toronto businessmen were produced Monday at the preliminary hearing.

The cheques were produced by Sgt. Nels Stavenjord of the RCMP, and most were entered for identification later.

CHARGE OUTLINED

Hugh Paton, 40, and D. Hubert Cox, 45, are charged with conspiring to steal money and securities from the meat packing firm between Jan. 1, 1956 and Nov. 30, 1960. Mr. Cox is president and Mr. Paton, vice-president.

Sgt. Stavenjord said he seized the cheques from the company offices in Brandon and from the Toronto offices of the two men.

PARENT FIRM

They included a number totalling $168,750 paid to Great West Saddlery Co. Ltd., parent firm of Brandon Packers, and requisitions saying the cheques were for management fees.

Plane, Research Boom From Kennedy Plan?

OTTAWA (CP) — President Kennedy's special defence message to Congress last week is being closely studied here by officials of the defence and defence production departments.

What interested the latter most was the reference to an extra $122,000,000 for research on new types of non-nuclear weapons and equipment in the field of communications, transportation and anti-submarine warfare.

Canadian companies have shown themselves expert in these fields.

The U.S. president also ordered procurement of more non-nuclear arms such as transport planes, helicopters, rifles, electronic and communications equipment, improved artillery and infantry ammunition and torpedoes.

As an example of how this might benefit Canada, the U.S. army, which has bought 60 Caribou transport planes from de Havilland Aircraft of Downsview, Ont., now may buy some 240 more.

On the other hand, President Kennedy ordered a reduction in the B-70 bomber research program. Orenda Engines Ltd. of Malton, Ont., had hoped its Iroquois engine might be the power plant for the B-70.

Mr. Kennedy opposed any procurement now of components for the U.S. Army's Nike-Zeus counter missile system, which Canadian scientists helped develop.

The RCAF's eye lit on the statement of President Kennedy that the air defence system must be improved.

The air force wants to get a new interceptor — specifically, the U.S. F-101B—to replace the ancient CF-100 jet in five home air defence squadrons.

Eichmann On Trial Today?

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann has been brought from his secret prison to stand trial today on charges of slaughtering millions of Jews, informed sources said last night.

Official sources declined to confirm the report. Neither would they deny that Eichmann already is locked in a heavily guarded cell in Beit Haam courthouse. Heavy security was in effect in and around the court.

Canadian Wants To Speak

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ottawa merchant who says he once heard Adolf Eichmann boast of killing Jews hopes to be a witness at the Eichmann trial in Israel this month.

Jacob Gora, 65, is writing a book about his experiences in Nazi concentration camps.

LUCKY TURNS

Now the owner of an Ottawa antique shop, he says he was scheduled for execution in the gas chamber four times but on each occasion was served by a lucky turn of events.

Mr. Gora says he saw Eichmann when the Nazi official visited a car factory in Warsaw where Mr. Gora was forced to work. Eichtmann was with a group of Gestapo officers.

WONDERFUL JOB

At one point, Mr. Gora heard Eichmann tell the plant owner: "Today we did a wonderful job. We killed 1,600 Jews at Ostrow Mazowiecki," a town 100 miles from Warsaw.

Mr. Gora lives here with his second wife and a 14-year-old daughter. He lost 79 members of his family to Nazi terrorism during the Second World War.

Fleet of Airliners Cleared by TCA

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines Monday night ordered resumption of flights by its Vickers Vanguard airplanes, grounded earlier because one had to make a belly landing Sunday night.

TCA said thorough checking of the eight Vanguards serviceable showed nothing wrong with the landing gear systems and service would be restored immediately.

One of the giant turbo-prop airliners landed on its belly at Montreal International Airport because the left landing gear would not go down. Forty-two passengers and seven crew members were aboard. None was injured.

TCA said early checks Monday showed the tire on the left wheel had jammed against the entry door. Further work was being done to find out why the tire jammed.

Two of the eight remaining Vanguards had not even been put into service when they were ordered grounded. They had just been delivered from Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd.,

Plane Crisis Brought Help Over Ocean

LONDON (AP) — Aircraft experts in England were called by telephone in an emergency bid to land a Trans-Canada Air Lines Vickers' Vanguard circling Montreal Sunday night with its left undercarriage stuck.

The airport controller at Montreal made the call to the plane's makers, the Vickers aircraft plant at Weybridge, south of London. The call was relayed to Vickers' flight test engineers. The time was 3 a.m. in Britain.

One of the engineers gave advice from his bedside telephone.

Then three of the engineers rushed to the plant by car to confer on possible ways to free the landing wheel.

Results of their consultation were relayed to the pilot of the still-circling plane, but none of the suggestions was effective.

When Montreal decided the only thing to do was to have the plane make a belly-landing, the men at Weybridge stood by with their fingers crossed.

Not one of the 42 passengers and seven crew members aboard was hurt.

Kills Burglar

Threats, Bribery Patronage Liberals Charge

WINNIPEG (CP) — Opposition Leader D. L. Campbell Monday started an attempt to prove to the public accounts committee of the Manitoba legislature that there were threats, bribery and patronage involved in the highway program of the Progressive Conservative government.

Most members of the 57-seat legislature were on hand, including Premier Duff Roblin. Chairman was Education Minister Stewart McLean, considered one of the strong men of the Roblin administration.

M. N. Hryhorczuk, a former Liberal-Progressive attorney-general, said Mr. Campbell did not intend to charge any particular person but was levelling charges against "the government and a political party."

John Tanchak (L-P—Emerson) testified that 11 of 13 flagmen employed on one highway project were employed "unnecessarily."

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Duff oRblin Monday launched Manitoba on a $45,000,000 borrowing program for 1961-62 when he tabled his capital estimates in the legislature.

Attorney-General Sterling Lyon contended many had been employed by the former Campbell government. Mr. Tanchak agreed.

George Collins, deputy public works minister, testified people had been ignoring barricades and he had been involved in the decision to hire flagmen.

Tangle of Metal Death for Four

LONDON, Ont. (UPI) — Four people were killed and a fifth seriously injured Monday in a truck-car crash seven miles south of here. The accident was Ontario's worst disaster of the four-day Easter holiday weekend.

Dead are Leo and Margelena Gillies of Glencoe, Ont., and Malcolm and Bonnie Leitch of Walker, Ont., all passengers in the car which crashed head-on with a tractor trailer truck on the outskirts of Lambeth, Ont.

Ten provincial police cruisers were sent to the scene, where police found the vehicles locked together in a tangle of twisted metal. Part of the trailer had fallen onto the car.

The men, sitting in the front seat of the car, were thrown onto the highway. Acetylene torches were used to cut free the bodies of their wives from the back seat of the crushed vehicle.

W. Simpson of London, driver of the transport, was taken to hospital, seriously injured.

The woman stripped off her clothing, plunged in and emerged dragging the thief by the collar.

He had picked for his victim a veteran woman pearl diver.

Little Danger of Sale For Fort Rodd Hill

There is little danger that Fort Rodd Hill will be sold to a private buyer, a chamber of commerce spokesman said last night.

"I don't think there is any danger of losing it—it is just a matter of getting Ottawa to do something," Aubrey Kent, chairman of the chamber, said last night.

He added directors of the chamber will discuss the situation at a meeting April 21 and make representations to the federal government.

His comment followed disclosure in the Colonist Sunday that the 44-acre historic fort has not yet been adopted by the Historical Sites and Monuments Board as a national monument.

The fort is held by the Crown Assets Disposal Corporation, which disposes of unwanted property.

Information that the fort is still in danger of being lost to the community came from Reeve George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection.

During a visit to Ottawa recently, Reeve Chatterton brought the fort to Northern Affairs Minister Walter Dinsdale's attention and obtained his assurance that the matter would be arranged.

McPhillips To Fight For Fort

Victoria member of parliament A. DeB. McPhillips promised yesterday to take up the fight to save Fort Rodd Hill.

Mr. McPhillips said he was "just as surprised as everyone else" to learn that the 44-acre property on the west side of the entrance to Esquimalt harbor could still be sold to the highest private bidder.

"I had no idea this was the case," he said, "and since it was outside my riding I have had no reason to take action in the matter. Now it looks as if I will have to follow it up on my return to Ottawa."

Mr. McPhillips said it was "unthinkable" that the historic site should fall into the hands of private interests.

Disclosure of the true status of Fort Rodd Hill, long thought to be safe as an historic site, was made over the weekend by Reeve George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative candidate in the forthcoming federal byelection in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Scurrah Happy Bus System Sale Called Off

Mayor Scurrah said yesterday he is happy that negotiations between private interests and the B.C. Electric Co. for sale of the Victoria transit system have been called off.

"Sale of the system by the B.C. Electric might have posed some very serious problems for the city," the mayor said.

The problems would have consisted of fare increases and reductions in service, he added.

Last year the BCE bus system here showed a loss of about $500,000.

A BCE spokesman said here yesterday that in spite of last year's loss the company is not at present asking for a fare increase or contemplating an immediate reduction or change in service.

Negotiations for sale of the transit system to a group headed by Ivor W. Neill, a former general manager of the BCE's transportation division, had been going on for some weeks.

Who's Right? Laotian Doesn't Care

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) — A junior government official yesterday summed up the feeling of many war-weary Laotians about current moves between East and West to end this country's civil war.

"The Americans have been helping us to kill each other at the rate of $100 a minute," he said.

"The Russians have been helping us to kill each other with 40 tons of arms every day.

"Who is right and who is wrong? I don't know.

"I like the Americans and I like Russians. All I know is that my brother is fighting at Muong Kassy."

Bulldozing Not for Car

A young driver who used his car as a bulldozer is due for a lecture from his parents.

Doreen Messerschmidt, 948 Falmouth, told police she was driving along Gosworth Road and stopped at Hillside to wait for traffic to clear.

Another car drew in behind her and the driver started nudging her car forward. She told police she wanted the driver cautioned. The driver's father promised he would be.

Water System In Park Plan

Tenders close at noon today for the supply of a sprinkler system for a small park planned for Oak Bay.

A two-acre area of lawn will be planted alongside the Beach Drive boat launching ramp near the Oak Bay Boathouse, engineer Geoffrey White said last night.

Plans call for completion of the project by the end of May. A parking area will also be constructed near the ramp.

Can't Be Static

Work at NATO John D Urges

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker yesterday called for further effort to develop a "sense of co-operation and inter-dependence" within the NATO alliance.

In a statement marking the 12th anniversary of the Atlantic alliance, the Canadian leader said it was both "natural and essential" that progress be made in this direction.

"We must expect NATO to develop and adjust to the problems with which we wish to deal," Diefenbaker said. "It cannot, therefore, be static nor can the essence and value of its work be defined without a full appreciation of the complexity of the threat—political, economic and psychological as well as military—which continues to develop for the free world."

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy said Monday the years ahead will demand of the NATO nations "courage, sacrifice and the will to seize every opportunity to secure and advance human liberty."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will press its European NATO allies to increase their conventional forces in Europe, it was learned Monday.

CPR 1960 Return Down by Millions

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway reported Monday consolidated earnings of $28,971,276 for its ground, air and sea operations in 1960, down from $31,288,931 in 1959.

N. R. Crump, chairman and president, said in the 80th annual report to stockholders that expenses were reduced through modernization programs, but revenues were down also.

Earnings per share came to $1.81 in 1960 compared with $1.97 in 1959.

Railway revenue in 1960 was $457,105,482, a decrease of four per cent mainly due to a fall in freight revenue as a result of slack economic conditions.

Passenger revenue decreased eight per cent. Since 1953, 125 passenger trains have been discontinued and passenger-train-miles cut 41 per cent.

Unofficial ship strikes cut steamship earnings, causing a deficit of $807,000 compared with profit of $776,000 in 1959.

Canadian Pacific Airlines improved operating revenue by 6.4 per cent, but expenses increased by 7.8 per cent for a net loss in 1960 of $4,700,000.

Burglars' Blast Leaves Shambles

$15,000 Safecracking

Police Sift Groceries For Clues in Robbery

Police sifted through pounds of rolled oats and rubble yesterday for leads in a safecracking at a Colwood store that netted robbers about $15,000—one of the biggest hauls on record in this area.

A heavier-than-usual charge must have been used to blow the safe, police said. The shattering blast sent pieces of the safe door hurtling like shrapnel through the store.

PROFESSIONALS

Professional crackamen are believed responsible for the raid on the IGA Foodliner at 1860 Island Highway, just short of Colwood Corner.

The tubular safe, set in a 3½-foot concrete block, yielded about $10,000 in cash and $5,000 in cheques, cashed Thursday and Saturday by store customers.

The Friday holiday between two busy shopping days, and the fact that store officials missed banking by 10 minutes Saturday, accounted for the amount of money on hand.

NOTHING LIKE THAT

"Ordinarily nothing like that amount is left in the store," said co-owners Earl Dennison, 2835 Queenston, and Clair Taylor, 3373 Maplewood.

Mr. Dennison who was in the store until 12.30 a.m. Monday, said insurance covered a loss by theft up to $10,000.

Shambles caused by the blast was discovered at 8 a.m. yesterday by produce manager Victor Lee, 764 Princess, when he arrived for work.

"I unlocked the front door as usual with my key," he said, "and was just starting to put on the lights when I looked over into the corner. What a mess!

"I just took off to a nearby service station and phoned the RCMP and the owners."

Police found that entry had been gained by jimmying the front door.

PILED IN FRONT

The explosive, believed to have been nitroglycerin, was packed about the safe door, and items from store stock piled in front in an attempt to absorb the blast.

The flying safe dial struck an eight-by-eight support pillar almost 20 feet away, and knocked it 45 degrees out of line.

Throughout the litter on the floor, and amid damaged displays nearby, police found torn fragments of cheques and bills.

The thieves also cleaned out the store's cash registers. Several cartons of cigarettes were taken.

Mr. Dennison yesterday asked that anyone who cashed cheques at the store Thursday or Saturday get in touch with him.

Centennial

Outright Grants Wanted

Victoria centennial committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said yesterday he is looking for outright grants to the city in connection with its 100th birthday next year.

He said he hopes the province will make two such grants to Victoria, one for a permanent object of some sort marking the occasion and another towards offsetting the cost of the centennial year program.

COST-SHARING

Straight grants are preferred to any sort of cost-sharing plan on a percentage basis, the chairman said.

He said his committee, which will meet on Friday, has received several suggestions for suitable permanent improvements which might mark the city's first century, but that the province may prefer to name its own gift.

Old Age Wrinkles

Council Scrutiny

What Ails City—And Cure, Study Topic

A major study of what ails Victoria and how to administer the cure will go before city council this summer, a spokesman for the Capital Region Planning Board said yesterday.

The study, undertaken by the CRPB at the request and expense of the city, may prompt a federal-civic urban renewal project designed to iron out many of the wrinkles of old age which mark Victoria's appearance.

CRPB planner Darshan Johal said yesterday that all field work in connection with the study has been completed and the preliminary reports have been drawn up.

All that remains, he said, is to draw up the final report and recommendations.

He said that if an urban renewal project is undertaken here it will proceed along three directions, redevelopment, rehabilitation and conservation.

The redevelopment phase, which would be limited in scope in Victoria, would involve demolition and replacement of structures deemed beyond repair.

Rehabilitation would consist of improving outdated structures considered still basically sound, and the conservation program would be designed to protect that which is now considered acceptable.

Where residential buildings are involved the federal government pays half the cost of renewal.

Ottawa Again Ponders Breakwater for Harbor

By IAN STREET

The federal government is again actively considering construction of a breakwater from Macaulay Point on the west side of the entrance to Victoria harbor, it was announced here last night.

Victoria member of parliament A. DeB. McPhillips said here last night the cost of the project had been estimated at more than $8,000,000.

He said also under consideration at the moment, but not yet at the stage where even a rough estimate of cost could be reached, was another breakwater project for Cadboro Bay.

A. DeB. McPHILLIPS

The Macaulay Point breakwater, running southeast from the Esquimalt shore, would provide protection from southwest gales which this winter endangered ships berthed at Ogden Point and forced a day's delay in launching of a destroyer escort at Victoria Machinery Depot.

MANY YEARS AGO

Mr. McPhillips said the Macaulay Point breakwater was first mooted "many years" ago part of the Outer Harbor scheme started under Sir Robert Borden's Conservative government in 1912. He said in the change of government that followed the project was dropped.

MORE SHIPPING

It was revived by Mr. McPhillips during his campaign for re-election two years ago and at that time he promised it would bring more shipping including passenger liners to Victoria. He said then the project was listed among 1958 public works planned by Ottawa.

Yesterday Mr. McPhillips said the breakwater, as envisaged, would leave a wide entrance to the harbor.

WONDERFUL JOB

He said construction would be of rockfill, similar to that employed in the Turkey Head breakwater. "The Oak Bay breakwater did a wonderful job this winter, I understand."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said last night the municipality was "most interested" in the proposal for a breakwater at Macaulay Point.

The reeve said he was of the impression that when the matter was raised some years ago it was met with opposition from the masters of some ships using the port of Victoria on grounds that it would make the harbor entrance difficult to negotiate in bad weather.

Yarrows Outbids Rivals

Yarrows Ltd. was low bidder for construction of a federal fisheries research vessel for service on the west coast, the Colonist learned yesterday.

The city firm submitted a tender of close to $1,800,000 to outbid other West Coast shipyards.

A. deB. McPhillips, city member of Parliament, said here the award of the contract would have to come from Ottawa but he added "it looks very good for a Victoria yard."

He said successful efforts to have bidding on the vessel confined to B.C. shipyards were a measure of the government's awareness of special problems facing the industry on the West Coast.

Award of the contract to Yarrows will mean that each of the three large shipyards on the West Coast will be engaged in major shipbuilding projects during the next year.

Victoria Machinery Depot and Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver each won a contract to build one of the new B.C. government ferries.

Here's How

Want To Be Hero?

Public service workers who make a special effort to assist tourists in Victoria will be the heroes and heroines of this year's Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Tourist Appreciation Week.

One such employee will be named ecah day of the week, May 21 to 27, and will be rewarded with a prize of a transistor radio, the TAW committee decided yesterday.

AMONG RANKS

Winners will be chosen from among the ranks of service station attendants, waitresses, hotel employees etc.

Purchasers of TAW buttons, which go on sale here May 1 and which will be available to the public through a Chamber of Commerce booth at the Jaycee fair, will have a chance to win a major prize, probably consisting of free air passage for two to any point in Canada and return.

$100 TOTAL

A total of $100 in prizes will go to winners of a high school essay contest whose participants will be a group of some 200 youngsters who are planning a trip to Europe next year.

The committee may also sponsor a daily draw for transistor radios during the week of the Jaycee fair.

Screams Stop Pick-Up

Scream of a young girl frightened off an assailant who tried to take her arm as she walked down Yates Street near Capital City Bowladrome last night.

Bowladrome manager Harry Welch said the girl ran into the building shouting but "I couldn't understand what was going on."

He asked someone to look after the distraught girl and went outside but could see nothing. A salesman from a car lot across the street told him a man had tried to snatch the girl's purse.

After the girl screamed the pick-up artist took off in the direction of Johnson Street.

Chamber Delays Jobless Benefit Anti-Abuse Plan

A Victoria-sponsored plan to prevent exploitation of unemployment insurance by seasonal workers will be held "under wraps" for seven months.

Proposed by Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the plan was approved by the convention of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island last month but no further action will be taken for the time being, a spokesman said last night.

NATIONAL RALLY

Adopted as a resolution by the ACCVI convention, the plan will be submitted to the national chamber convention, to be held in Halifax Oct. 1-4.

The scheme calls for an inflexible annual wage ceiling of $3,460 for persons to be eligible to participate in the unemployment insurance scheme.

PAYING HALF

Persons earning less than that would be allowed to contribute to the fund as at present, with the employer paying half the contribution.

Over that amount, persons would not be permitted to take part. At present, if an employee earns more than $3,460 he can continue to participate in unemployment insurance if he pays all the contribution himself.

SHORT PERIODS

Some seasonal workers, notably commercial fishermen, at present may earn more than $3,460 in a short period and then draw unemployment benefits.

"If the national convention approves the plan it will be sent to Ottawa officials," the Victoria spokesman said. "We don't plan to do anything about it until then."

More Clouds More Heat March Mixup

It was a mixed-up March that Greater Victoria residents experienced this year.

Although there was less sunshine than in March, 1960, last month was warmer and had less rain and snow and more wind than usual.

There were only 138.3 hours of sunshine compared to 149.5 hours in March, 1960, while the lowest temperature was 31 degrees—25 degrees last year.

Only 2.9 inches of snow were recorded while March, 1960, had 5.5 inches. Rainfall—1.65 inches—was .46 inch less than normal and the average wind speed of 13.3 miles an hour was 1.4 miles an hour above the average.

To Be Invited

Victoria centennial committee spokesman said yesterday that U.S. President John F. Kennedy will be asked to attend city's centennial celebrations next year. The president has already announced his intention of attending Seattle's Century 21 fair which takes place simultaneously.

Family Flees Flames

Fire originating in a basement corner caused a Burnside mother and three small sons to flee their home for the safety of a neighbor's home at 9.30 a.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Armitage, 1191 Burnside West, was vacuuming in her home when she noticed smoke coming up in a corner of the living room.

DROVE HER BACK

When she opened the basement door, billowing smoke and fumes drove her back. She closed the door, gathered Bruce, 7, Chris, 6, and Robbie, 3, and headed for the door.

On her way she paused long enough to dial the operator on the telephone, and the alarm was relayed to Saanich fire department.

Firemen found flames starting to eat into the living room from the basement.

CAME HOME

Neither Alfred Armitage, who came home from work, nor Deputy Fire Chief Glen Robbins could say how the fire started. It began in a corner of the basement where some chesterfield chairs and camping equipment were stored, and the flames found their way through a cold air vent to the living room.

Damage was confined to half the basement, and was light on the main floor.

Still Room On Goodwill Annual Tour

Victoria Chamber of Commerce officials said yesterday that accommodation for six more persons is still available in connection with the annual goodwill tour which leaves for San Francisco on Saturday.

Some 30 members and wives have already signed up for the week-long tour.

Fares are $125 single and $225 double, and include overnight accommodation during the week. A total of four days will be spent in San Francisco.

City Shipyards Will 'Wait and See' If $7,000,000 Job Goes Overseas

Victoria shipyard officials yesterday adopted a "wait and see" attitude in the face of threats that a multi-million-dollar ship contract for B.C. could go overseas.

They were commenting on a recent announcement by Northland Navigation Company that it will build two big ships in Holland unless the federal government shortly brings down new legislation to help Canadian shipowners.

Capt. H. F. C. Terry, president of Northland, said in Vancouver it would cost $7,000,000 to have the ships built here.

He said Holland or Japan can build the ships for $3,500,000.

Capt. Terry said he can't wait much longer for the government to bring down its proposed Ship Construction Act as the first ship has to be ready for service in May of next year.

The new legislation, designed to assist Canadian shipowners build new vessels in Canadian yards against overseas competition, was mentioned in the Throne Speech and is expected to be placed before the Commons sometime this month.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, said his yard would be "very disappointed" to miss out on the Northland job, on which it was ready and willing to bid, and which would nicely supplement the "meagre" supply of major shipbuilding jobs available to west coast yards.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., declined to comment on Capt. Terry's statement in view of the imminence of new federal legislation dealing with the matter.

Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips said he was confident the new legislation, whenever it is brought down, will go a long way towards curing the ills besetting shipyards on the west coast and throughout Canada.

Meanwhile, Mr. McPillips said, the government has been doing what it can to meet "certain problems" facing B.C. yards by calling for tenders where possible only on the west coast if the vessel was to serve in local waters.

City Hiker Defies Painful Foot Injury

Blaine Tringham, one of two Victoria Jaycees on a cross-Canada walking tour, has developed foot trouble.

A message received from the two hikers yesterday said Tringham had developed painful foot injuries but intended to continue with the walk after seeing a doctor. The two Jaycees are walking about 30 miles a day.

His companion on the walk is Don Johnson. They are being sponsored by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce and tourist trade businessmen.

Tringham has been plagued by ailments. Just before leaving Victoria he strained his back.

His doctor told him walking was the best exercise for it.

'Accidental Drowning' Ruling Handed Down in Tot's Death

"Accidental drowning" was the ruling handed down yesterday by Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore in the death Friday of four-year-old Gina Kunalevich, 808 Dominion.

Shortly before 4 p.m. Friday Mrs. Jean Kunalevich, the child's mother, found the little girl face down in a hole dug for a post, in which some water had accumulated. The hole had not been boarded over, a member of the family said.

Efforts at resuscitation carried out by neighbor Hector Renton, 801 Dominion, and by Esquimalt police were vain. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

At a recent social meeting of the Multiple Sclerosis Society, Mrs. Stewart Hagar, left, president of the Jaycee-ettes, presented a cheque for $200 to Mrs. Frank Hammond, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Multiple Sclerosis Society. Funds will be used for the society's patient aid program. Patient Aid

Multiple Sclerosis Society Helps Individual Patients

There is a disease that is five times more common than polio, yet is without a proved cause, cure or treatment.

This is multiple sclerosis, a disease that strikes mainly at young people in their late teens and early 20s.

Exactly what is MS?

It is a neurological disease—a sloughing away of the myelin sheath that covers nerves of the spine. The result is an incapacitation of legs and hands.

The greatest long-term hope for MS patients is research, being carried out through the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, affiliated with the Montreal Neurological Institute for Research.

There is in the area the Victoria and Vancouver Island Chapter of the MS Society of Canada, a group enveloping about 175 members, 35 of them active. This group, which annually sends its quota of $2,500 to the research institute, is primarily interested in individual help for the sufferer of MS, which the society considers a family problem.

Because MS patients are not considered chronic or able to be rehabilitated, they may not be admitted to chronic hospitals or to rehabilitation centres.

The society, with the family in mind, is trying to compensate for this by working year-round setting up patient-aid programs and supplying equipment. The society hires physiotherapists to go to the homes; it supplies housekeeper services for women in wheelchairs, and it buys wheelchairs, lifts, tables and braces for treatment. This is done, and the research quota reached, with funds raised from its activities and from donations.

ON APRIL 15

The public may give a helping hand while enjoying a party on Saturday, April 15, when the society will hold a coffee party from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a tea from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company. Proceeds will be used to aid some of the 3,000 MS patients in British Columbia.

Some of the organizations assisting the MS Society in this city include Yarrow's Welfare Benefit Fund, B.C. Electric Welfare Fund, the Jaycee-ettes, Sons of Scotland, Moose Lodge, and International Brotherhood of Woodworkers.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married for seven months. I work in an office six days a week. Last year I had a severe throat infection and was out of the office for two weeks.

Yesterday morning my throat bothered me. Not wanting to risk the same trouble, I suggested to my husband that he call the doctor. He said, "Forget it. He'll charge you $15 for coming out and then prescribe $30 worth of medicine." So I went to work.

This morning my throat was no better so again I asked him to call the doctor. His answer was "Go to the hospital for a few days. We have hospitalization insurance and it won't cost us anything."

What do you think of this? Any advice?—HURT BRIDE

Dear Hurt: Decide on your own whether you need a doctor and act accordingly. And P.S. Don't buy any burial insurance.

Dear Ann Landers: In the past three months two of the fellows I knew in the distant past have phoned and invited me to have lunch with them. Both men are married. (I am not.) They do not know each other.

I had lunch with one and a coffee date with the other. Both were friendly and made no out-of-the-way suggestions. Now, I've been asked to dinner by the one who took me to lunch. I am debating whether to accept.

We enjoy one another's company and there's a great deal to talk about, but somehow I think it may not be the proper thing to do. Both men speak with ease about their wives and they seem proud of their children. I would appreciate your seasoned advice.—JUST GOOD COMPANY

Dear Company: If these men speak with ease about their wives they should speak to them about inviting you to their homes for dinner.

A lunch or a coffee date is perfectly proper once — to catch up on "old times"—but after that it could get too cosy. Put it to your friends in just this way. They'll get the picture.

Dear Ann Landers: I will be 21 in a few months and would like to marry a young man who has been wonderful to me for three years. The problem is my parents. I am of legal age according to the law in this state and could marry without their permission, but I hate to go against them.

There has always been violent fighting in our house. Both my parents drink a lot and weekends are horrible. My mother doesn't like to cook or clean and I've done most of it since I was 13. I have four younger sisters and two small brothers. My mother feels it is my responsibility to help her raise them. She says I have no right to marry until they are older.

I feel guilty when I think of putting my own desires before the welfare of my younger sisters and brothers. I would continue to help my mother on weekends after I marry, but she says it's not enough. Am I selfish to want a life of my own?—F.W.

Dear F.W.: Your mother has no right to saddle you with the responsibilities of her younger children. You've already done more than your share.

Tell her you plan to be married shortly after your 21st birthday, then go ahead. Continue to help your mother out whenever you can, but make certain your husband comes first.

Confidentially to NEEDING A HAND: You don't need a hand, you need a foot—well placed. Your husband has been a saint. Stop blaming the world for your trouble and accept responsibility for yourself.

Buy an annuity and live
Financial insecurity can lead to a barren and lonely existence for the older person. Those years after 60 can also bring the fear of out-living capital and the worry of managing the savings of a lifetime. The result—often severe stresses that can be dangerous to both physical and mental health.
People who buy annuities buy freedom from worry and fear. Our annuitants find that a regular income guaranteed for life brings peace of mind, helps make those sunset years a rich and satisfying experience. And we know that many live to a ripe old age.
Whether you are 30 and buying an annuity in advance or you are 70 and want payments to start now there's an annuity designed to bring you peace of mind. The Man from Manufacturers would be pleased to give you the complete story. Be sure to ask him about the favourable tax picture.

ARE FACE CREAMS OVER-RATED?

Sometimes no, sometimes yes! A cream with fancy price, fancy package, plus extravagant promises of a "miracle," is obviously over-rating itself. There are no easy "miracles" in skin care—but you can get results with regular use of a cream that offers consistent quality and honest, pure ingredients. POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM, for instance. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, is made specifically to repair dry, aging skin. Allantoin (long known to doctors as a tissue-builder) floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin into thirsty tissues. Used regularly, POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM keeps skin smooth, soft, young-looking. Get POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM today. Reasonably priced, buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Advt.

Marshall-Parton Vows

Honeymoon in Hawaii for Couple

A honeymoon trip to Hawaii followed the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Sandra Claire Parton to Mr. James Eugene Marshall in Oak Bay United Church.

Rev. A. Calder officiated at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. G. Parton of Kings Road, and the late Mr. Albert Parton, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall of Shelbourne Street.

Miss Parton was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. John Robertson.

The lovely bride was gowned in traditional white taffeta in Empire style with a slight train and lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a seed pearl crown made by the maid of honor and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white stephanotis.

Maid-of-honor Miss Lavon Riome chose a frock of Dublin moss green and the bridesmaid, Miss Diane Williams, cousin of the bride, wore mimosa yellow. They both carried yellow carnations and wore single-rose headdresses entone with their dresses.

Mr. Geoffrey Castle was groomsman and ushers were Mr. Duncan Stewart, Mr. Eskil Johnson, brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. John Parton, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in the Sir William Wallace room of Holyrood House. For going away, the bride changed into a silk sheath in white and purple-flowered print, topped by a three-quarter coat and orchid corsage.

When Mr. and Mrs. Marshall return from Hawaii they will make their permanent home in Victoria.

The 18 deals played in the 1961 Intercollegiate Championship will be presented here daily. If you'd like to replay them in your own game, save this series.

Students at more than 170 colleges and universities played 18 hands during the first week of March to decide the Intercollegiate Championship. All played the same deals, each on their own campus. Resulting scores were then sent to the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers, where they are being scored against predetermined pars. Each deal has a built-in problem in bidding and/or play, and the deals are prepared so that E-W and N-S pairs have an equal chance to shine.

North's bidding problem arises on the third round. If he rebids three diamonds, the likelihood is that North-South will reach a contract of three no trump. If he raises spades, a four spade contract may result. Either can be made with careful play.

At a no trump contract, South must hold up the heart ace for two rounds. On winning the third heart, he can see that the hand will be made easily if the club finesse works. But the club finesse must be taken into the danger hand, so South should look for a second string to his bow. He can find this in the diamond suit, leading a low diamond and ducking the trick to East.

Assuming a club return, South must refuse the finesse, pinning his hopes on the diamond suit, with the added chance that if diamonds do not split and East proves to have the club king, declarer can still make his contract by surrendering a club trick, provided East does not have the remaining diamond stopper.

Game at spades is considerably easier. South wins the second heart, goes to dummy with a spade and establishes the clubs before pulling trumps. Played in this way, he will lose not more than one club and one heart trick.

New Italian Prizes Richer Than Nobel

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Three new prizes richer than the Nobel awards are expected to be given for the first time late this year for major contributions to mankind.

The Eugenio Balzan prizes have been established in memory of a former Italian newspaper man who amassed a great fortune through wise investment of his termination pay.

Prizes totalling more than $500,000 every year will be awarded for contributions to (1) peace, humanity and brotherhood among peoples, (2) letters, philosophy and the arts, and (3) science and medicine.

A foundation presided over by the presidents of Italy and Switzerland has worked out almost all of the details except where and when the first awards are to be announced.

Balzar, born in northern Italy of middle class parents, did odd jobs in his youth and eventually became a proof reader at Corriere Della Sera in Milan, Italy's biggest and most influential newspaper. He rose to reporter, was transferred to the business office and became business manager. Tiring of the restrictions of Mussolini's fascist government, he quit in 1932. After 35 years with the paper he received a lump sum in liquidation pay.

He moved to Switzerland, invested his money and became an important financier. Under Swiss banking laws, the exact size of his fortune is secret, but it was estimated at from $13,000,000 to $20,000,000 when Balzan died in 1953.

One source said the foundation's capital now is considerably larger than the 60-year-old Nobel foundation, which started with $6,000,000.

Ocean Scientists Reach Milestone

OFF GUADALUPE ISLAND (AP) — Rock samples identified as from the middle layer of the earth's three-layer crust have been brought from 540 feet under the ocean floor.

The achievement by the drill ship Cuss I late Saturday was hailed as a milestone in the exploration of the oceans.

LONG-SOUGHT

Mohole Project director Willard Bascomb identified the samples as basaltic rock from the long-sought second layer of the earth's crust. One was about the size of a small can of frozen fruit juice. The other was 10 feet long.

"This apparently is the upper surface of the so-called second layer which long puzzled oceanographers because its depth corresponds to that predicted by seismic surveys," Bascomb said. "Reaching and sampling this layer was a major scientific objective of the present tests."

The outer layer of the earth's crust is soft sediment. The second mystified scientists because the speed of earthquake waves passing through it indicated it could be any of three different materials, one of which is basalt.

The third layer is believed composed of still-harder rock. It may be beyond the reach of the present drilling project. The drilling ship lowered its pipe to a water depth of 11,700 feet before it started probing the ocean floor.

Good Seed Bed Vital

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Quite a few letters have come to my desk these past few weeks from folks who are planning to sow a new lawn this spring. These letters have left me a bit worried. They ask what kind of grass seed to buy, how much to buy, how to sow it, how to keep it watered—almost every question you can think of except the all-important one, how to prepare the seed bed.

These good people seem to have the idea that all you need for a first-class lawn is a bagful of good seed. Actually, the quality of the seed isn't nearly as important as the preparation of the ground. You could buy the most expensive seed on the market, you could spend hours rolling the lawn, mowing it three times a week, fertilizing it, spiking and watering and weeding it, yet none of this would give you a good lawn if the seed bed—the lawn's foundation—isn't properly prepared.

* * *

On the other hand, I know of one very fine lawn in Victoria that has never been seeded at all. Its owner did a good job of preparing the site—in fact, he spent the whole of one summer on the job—then, shortly before seeding time, he was stricken with illness. It was 18 months before he could return to his lawn project and by that time enough seeds had blown in to give him a near-perfect sward of grass. A touch of weed-killer and fertilizer and he was home-free.

All of which goes to show that the work of preparation is the most important factor in the making of a good lawn.

The first piece of work to be tackled is to get the site perfectly smooth and perfectly level. Or, if the lay of the land permits, the new lawn may be sloped very gently downward away from the house.

* * *

In the case of a new home, the material you have to work with on this levelling job is usually the dead, infertile subsoil thrown up by the contractor during the excavation of the basement and foundation. No matter how poor this dirt may be, the levelling must be done as carefully as if you were working with the most expensive topdressing. It is poor economy to leave a lot of bumps and hollows and fill them up later with purchased topsoil.

The foundation of a lawn is built like a sandwich. The bottom layer of bread is the poor, infertile subsoil, made firm and level by raking and rolling. The top piece of bread is a layer of good, purchased topsoil, three inches deep at the very least. The filling—the meat in the sandwich—is a mixture of subsoil and topsoil, known as the binding layer. Now you have three layers of soil in your seed bed—good, medium and poor—reading from top to bottom. The idea here is to "taper" the fertility downward, thereby coaxing the grass roots to a greater depth than when the soil lies in sharply defined layers.

* * *

Following the levelling of the subsoil base, the next job is to spread a thin, one-inch layer of good topsoil over the surface and scuffle it in, mixing it thoroughly with the top two inches of infertile subsoil.

Over this binding layer—the meat in the sandwich—go ahead and spread all the good topsoil you can efford. Three inches is about the minimum you can get away with; five inches is much better. This final layer isn't scuffled in but is made level and very firm.

You should really rent or borrow a roller for this stage of the work and the final preparation involves alternately rolling and raking, over and over again, until the surface is as firm and level as a billiard table.

The test now is to walk on it. The surface should be so firm that no footprints are deeper than half an inch, and all should be of uniform depth with no soft spots anywhere. If your seed bed passes this test, you can give it one more shallow raking, then get to scattering seed.

Nat Caresses Every Word

Irving Berlin used to say you'd just better not write a bad line in a song for Ethel Merman because everyone in miles would hear it, every last syllable of it. Nat King Cole is like that, too. He is conceivably the clearest, most distinct male singer of our time.

When Nat King Cole sings a line, every word, every syllable, is caressed as if he loved language, which he truly does. This is particularly remarkable in an age which is noted for its teen-age singers who cannot be understood at all. Perhaps it's just as well. The lyrics sung by these youngsters had best not be heard too clearly or at all. They are fairly dreadful.

The other day I caught Nat King Cole's act at the Copacabana simply to hear him fondle such words as "life is funny or it's sad," "aren't you glad you're you," "wild is the wind and wild is the stormy sea." Cole has the same problem as a composer writing for Ethel Merman. He better hear every last phrase with paralyzing clarity.

Cole closes his act with a parody on rock 'n' roll which ends with the words, "Mr. Cole won't rock 'n' roll." And for good reason, he has no gift for unintelligibility. Later I had a talk with him and I told him that I had tried to get some rock 'n' roll lyrics to use on my television show only to discover that many of those songs are not published in sheet music at all. We got the records in order to write down the lyrics—but we couldn't understand the words on the records.

"I can't understand the words on those records either," Cole said. "But my daughter can. She's 16 and she can listen to a record and repeat the words. Of course, there's not too much in those lyrics worth talking about. The kids are interested in the back beat. They're interested in the gimmick sounds, not in words.

His own clarity, Cole says, is because he thinks of himself as a singer telling a story. "I like to tell a story when I sing. The story line has always fascinated me. I like to make people aware of the words. Some singers use words simply to call attention to their voice; I do it the other way around."

And while on the subject of singers, I'd like to call your attention to Richard Avedon's pictures in "Harper's Bazaar" now on the stands of the teen-age idols—the Everly Brothers, Fabian, Conway Twitty, Dion. These are social documents, these brutish, sullen physiognomies of our children's idols. There's almost no text—the pictures telling the story quite well by themselves. However the layout is titled "Aspects of Teenage Culture, U.S.A.," and under this is Webster's definition of culture: "The training and refining of the mind, emotions, manners and taste."

Marilyn and Joe Again?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—I am always surprised by Marilyn Monroe. She never does what I expect her to do. I didn't expect her to marry Arthur Miller (or this could be written t'other way around). And I don't exect her to remarry Joe Di Maggio. But now I won't be surprised if she does. When they divorced, Marilyn's chief complaint against the great ballplayer was "boredom"—he preferred to watch TV night after night. But now, unless this is another bid for publicity—and how could MM avoid it, beelining for Joe in Florida?—anyway, she doesn't seem bored by his presence any more. Maybe Joe isn't watching television!

* * *

Nancy Kwan, star of "Flower Drum Song," screamed lustily when producer Ross Hunter suggested a haircut for her role in the movie version of the Rodgers-Hammerstein hit. "Not one inch," shouted Nancy, clutching he waist-length raven tresses. She will wear a wig.

* * *

John Huston has run into some resistance from the family of the late father of psychiatry, Sigmund Freud, on his plan to film the life of Freud. But he hopes the script by Jean Paul-Sartre will prove his good intentions. No one is signed yet for the starring role.

* * *

There's a rumor in Rome that Audrey Hepburn has been asked to take over for Elizabeth Taylor in "Cleopatra" when the ill-fated production resumes. I believe this would only be true in the event that Elizabeth decides she cannot make the film. Husband Eddie Fisher seems to think she will be well enough in four months.

* * *

Don Ameche's leading lady in "13 Daughters," Monica Boyer, isn't too unhappy apparently about the wrath of Equity when she walked out on a scene in the late play, when the noise of a construction job outside was too distracting for her. Monica has tests coming up at Universal and Paramount.

* * *

Mario Lanza's life story has been cleared with the Lanza relatives, and another Mario—De Monaco—has been mentioned strongly for the film role of the late, great, but unhappy, singer. And if they want to use Lanza's voice, there are plenty of recordings available.

* * *

The new understanding between Dick Powell and June Allyson is very pleasant. Keep your fingers crosed for them.

* * *

It's lucky that Kim Novak is not carrying a torch for director Richard Quine, because he now seems quite enamored of creamy-complexioned, red-haired English actress Maggi Brown. Maggi was a model in England . . . Kim stars for Quine in "The Notorious Landlady." The last time she worked for him ((in "Strangers When We Meet") they were semi-engaged to be married.

* * *

The French censors are lifting the export ban on "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," the very naughty 18th-century story of morals and manners in France . . . but a heavy blackout prevails on the French-made film, "Le Petit Soldat," because it deals with the Algerian situation, which is taboo . . . However, that completely-nude-from-the-rear shot of Brigitte Bardot—who else?—in her latest movie, "Only For Love," passed the censors without the batting of an eyelid. A new one for Brig is "Repose Of The Warrior" for Roger Vadim, who is still wrestling with the "Marquis De Sade" movie for his ex-wife. This cruelty story will be brought up-to-date with a Nazi in place of the Marquis.

Professor Sees Bleak Outlook In Crystal Ball

MONTREAL (CP) — Have you ever wondered what's in store for your children in the next century?

Prof. N. J. Berrill, a Montreal zoologist, has, and his picture is not optimistic.

Addressing the St. James Literary Institute, he said:

"If we can't leave well-enough alone, we will either be squeezed to death in the population explosion or succumb to neurotic deaths from stress syndromes — getting sick of each other."

The earth's supply of conventional fuels might be exhausted by the year 2000 and nuclear fusion would have been abandoned for lack of safe disposal methods for radioactive waste.

Communications and transportation would not improve significantly because "we will tire of seeing nothing fast and going nowhere rapidly."

More and more would be done by fewer and fewer people as automation took over time-consuming jobs.

* * *

A limit would soon be reached on the amount of food the earth can produce due to loss of phosphorus and other chemicals from soil.

People would flock to the cities, most of which were already too large to be maintained efficiently.

Is there any escape? Prof. Berrill doesn't think so. Humans would prove their ability to breed faster than they could take off for other planets.

* * *

If, however, adequate birth control were instituted immediately and methods of hydrogen fusion to produce heat developed as sources of power, the average man in the 21st century should turn out to be middle-aged, have an average of half a child, support two octogenarian parents—and be bored.

This is the best, even if there is a nuclear war, we can hope for, he maintains.

Gale Rips Off Top of Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — High winds caused minor damage in Vancouver and Penticton Monday.

Winds gusting to 50 miles an hour tore the top off a convertible car as its driver was going to work in Vancouver. In Penticton a sudden gale with gusts to 70 miles an hour wreaked minor havoc for 30 minutes.

SECOND CHILD DROWNS IN THREE-DAY PERIOD

Macfarlane Standout 'New Boy'

ALAN MACFARLANE

By PETER BRUTON

Of this year's crop of legislative "new boys" Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane was a standout.

Last September's provincial election saw quite a few changes and when MLAs gathered in Victoria for the recent session one third of the province's 52 legislators were new.

True, two of these 14 had served in the House previously—North Vancouver's J. Gordon Gibson of the Liberals and Frank Calder, the Indian [illegible] Atlin.

The session had hardly got under way before Mr. Macfarlane began to show the quite considerable debating prowess he has at his command.

And by the time the session was nearing its end he was getting one of the highest accolades given opposition MLAs — Premier Bennett would openly display his anger and displeasure at Mr. Macfarlane.

Unlike most other professions a lawyer makes his living at debating and at that Mr. Macfarlane excells. Perhaps he's just a very good lawyer but it seemed to observers that he was the one who mostly scored with a telling criticism or a sound suggestion when it was needed most.

Another lawyer and another Liberal, Harry McKay of Fernie, came closest to Mr. Macfarlane insofar as ability was concerned but he openly admitted that he was still trying to find his feet, so to speak, and didn't say as much as he could have.

Outshone Most Others

It was perhaps unfortunate for Liberal leader Ray Perrault that two of his members plainly outshone him. But the fact remains they outshone most others, including some who had been in the House for years.

The new Liberal leader didn't have a good session.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner summed it up well when he accused Mr. Perrault of "superficiality."

All too often it seemed the Liberal chieftain would arise and say how such and such an expert supported his views or how the people who should know said such and such.

"Name them, name them," the other members would shout.

Mr. Perrault couldn't or at best wouldn't identify someone who could not be regarded as an impartial and unbiased expert.

It seemed he was a little out of his depth, that he was an amateur in pro ranks.

The member who really surprised was Gordon Gibson, the millionaire logger who first said "money talks in the issuance of forest management licences.

Before the session Mr. Gibson told students at University of B.C. that he intended to uncover untold scandal in Victoria.

"I haven't looked under the rug yet but I'm sure the dirt is there," he said.

This in itself sparked a monster of a legislative row which reached ridiculous proportions when there was talk that Mr. Gibson could be arrested and incarcerated in the jail cell in the basement of the legislative buildings.

Three Years Later

Mr. Gibson, it must be admitted, was the first to publicly state that there was something wrong in the lands and forests department. Three years later former lands and forests minister Robert E. Somers was sentenced to five years in jail on bribery charges.

In the interim the burly Mr. Gibson had resigned his seat to test public opinion and had lost to Social Credit.

This year he came to Victoria to have his day.

He certainly had it.

In a sensational speech he attacked both Highways Minister Gaglardi and Attorney-General Robert Bonner, he accused the government of moral decay and corruption, and he openly hinted that scandal was everywhere, waiting to be uncovered.

For a week or more charge and counter-charge rocketed back and forth. Mr. Gibson had sought special privileges, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson. He was trying to buy information to hurt Social Credit, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson.

And from then on Mr. Gibson settled down to speak only on a subject he knows intimately—forestry and logging.

The government didn't accept many of his suggestions but he was praised by the Socred members for the manner in which he was delivering his criticisms.

On a man to man basis the CCF had a very good group of new members.

Served Short Stint

Alex Macdonald of Vancouver East, who served a short stint as a CCF MP in Ottawa, was impressive as was the CCF's social welfare critic David Barrett of Dewdney.

Both showed an ability to hit and hit hard and once again the success of their attack was demonstrated in the anger it generated from the government side of the House.

Mrs. Camille Mather (CCF Delta) started slowly but picked up steam as the session went on and will no doubt improve greatly during the next four years."

But all things considered there was one standout as the most colorful of all new members on either side of the legislature.

That was Waldo Skillings, the new Social Credit member for Victoria.

Before the session Mr. Skillings said he would say and do little until he had learned the ropes and had time to get his feet under the table.

Within a few days, it seems, he succeeded in his aim.

He became the government's main heckler . . . sometimes it seemed he would heckle just for the sake of saying something.

For instance a request from CCF leader Robert Strachan for the government to do something about flooding in the Cowichan-Newcastle area brought this cry from Mr. Skillings:

"Think of B.C. Bob, put B.C. first."

It was an amazing comment to say the least.

But observers still regard Mr. Skilling's exhibition in the public accounts committee as the piece de resistance of the whole session.

Words having failed he invited a CCFer to step outside to settle their differences. What could top that?

Ferries Cut Deep Slash In Traffic at Airport

VANCOUVER (CP)—Manager William Inglis of Vancouver airport says airport passenger traffic in 1960 was 125,000 less than forecast largely because of the provincial government's Tsawwassen ferry service to Vancouver Island.

Total number of passengers in and out of the airport was 925,000 compared with a forecast of 1,050,000.

Algeria Ready To Talk

TUNIS, Tunisia (Reuters)—The information minister in the Algerian insurgent provisional government said Monday night peace talks with France could still open as scheduled Friday if the French government shows "goodwill."

"We repeat that we are ready for negotiation; when we say ready we mean we are ready now, at this instant," Mohammed Yazid said.

The insurgent government announced last Friday it could not attend the talks.

Cut Off All Ties With South Africa 25 States Tell UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Twenty-five African nations demanded Monday night that the United Nations break all diplomatic, economic and political relations with South Africa because of its apartheid policies.

A resolution calling for the UN General Assembly to recommend extreme penalties against South Africa was submitted by the 25 nations for debate in the assembly's special political committee.

LED BY GHANA

The move, led by Ghana, represented a split in the Afro-Asian group.

India, Ceylon and Malaya submitted a resolution earlier that would permit nations to take whatever single or collective action they thought fitting to try forcing South Africa to change treatment of its 10,000,000 non-whites.

WITHDREW

South Africa, at the recent Commonwealth prime minister's conference in London, withdrew its application for continued membership in the Commonwealth.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd said the decision was made because of continuing criticism of South Africa's policy of apartheid by the other members of the Commonwealth.

Sever Red Links U.S. Urges Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, accusing Premier Fidel Castro of betraying the Cuban revolution, called on his regime yesterday to "sever its links with the international Communist movement."

A government statement said the U.S. believes "that the Castro regime in Cuba offers a clear and present danger to the authentic and autonomous revolution of the Americas . . ."

"What began as a movement to enlarge Cuban democracy and freedom has been perverted, in short, into a mechanism for the destruction of free institutions in Cuba, for the seizure by international Communism of a base and bridgehead in the Americas, and for the disruption of the inter-American system."

The U.S. statement was the toughest indictment of the Havana regime issued so far by the new Kennedy administration.

Empress Bucks Ice

MONTREAL (UPI) — The passenger liner Empress of Britain with 525 passengers aboard was reported making slow progress last night in the Gulf of St. Lawrence en route to Montreal.

The Canadian Pacific liner was scheduled to arrive here today but officials said last night that the ship's arrival time could not be confirmed.

The 35,000-ton liner was proceeding through more than 30 miles of thick ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It sailed from Liverpool March 28.

Pool in Esquimalt Scene of Tragedy

* * *

PATRICK CARSON
. . . cowboy hat

The second Greater Victoria death by drowning of a four-year-old child in a three-day period occurred yesterday in Esquimalt.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital was Patrick Robert Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Carson, 105 Fernhill, who fell into a private swimming pool about 200 yards from his own home.

LESS THAN MILE

On Friday, less than a mile from yesterday's tragedy, four-year-old Gina Kunalevich, of 888 Dominion, drowned in a rain-filled hole, dug for a clothesline post.

Police confirmed the Carson boy drowned in a pool but threw a veil of secrecy over details.

COWBOY HAT

Apparently the lad, wearing a cowboy hat and two gun belts, wandered away from home during the late afternoon. Police went out to look for him shortly before 6.30 p.m.

A prepared press release from Esquimalt police said that a neighbor, Jack Moffat, of 880 Fernhill, heard that other neighbors were searching for the youngster, and went to his swimming pool where he found the body in the pool.

PHONED FOR HELP

Police also said a woman phoned for help from the Moffat residence about 6.45 p.m. and that when their car, nearby at the time, arrived at the scene, Mr. Moffatt was applying artificial respiration.

One of the two policemen who attended—Consts. Archie Browning and Frank Bell—applied mouth-to-mouth respiration en route to hospital.

NO RESPONSE

The boy was dead on arrival but respiration was continued for five minutes with no response, said a hospital spokesman.

Police notified the coroner, Dr. John H. Moore.

HOW DEEP

Asked how deep the water was and whether there was a fence around the swimming pool, Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe said, "you'll have to find out for yourself."

The front-yard pool is surrouded on three sides by a high wooden fence. There is a large rock outcropping on the side closest to the Moffat home.

DEEP END

Mr. Moffat said he found the boy at the deep end of the pool where the water was about six feet deep. It was about three feet deep at the shallow end.

The child's grandfather, Robert Saunders, 3977 Rainbow, who accompanied the saddened parents to hospital, said Patrick was the only son. The Carsons have a one-year-old daughter, Deborah.

Saanich Votes In June

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Byelections to fill the existing four vacant seats in the House of Commons—for Esquimalt-Saanich, Leeds in eastern Ontario, Resigouche-Madawaska in New Brunswick, and Kings in Prince Edward Island — are being scheduled for mid-June.

Choice of dates for the four byelections, to be announced by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker soon after Parliament's return next Monday from its Easter holidays, rests between June 12 or June 19, according to cabinet sources.

All four constituencies were formerly held by the Conservatives. The current line-up in the 265-member House of Commons is: Conservatives 202, Liberals 50, CCF-New Party nine, vacant four.

31 Held in Vast Ban-Bomb Rally

LONDON (UPI) — Thirty-one demonstrators, including an American, were arrested last night in the aftermath of a giant downtown rally against nuclear weapons that spilled over to the American embassy.

Two of the arrests were made in front of the embassy and 25 more in front of the Saville Row police station several blocks away. Four other persons were arrested at the rally in Trafalgar Square.

Scotland Yard refused to disclose names of those arrested but said their case would be heard today.

More than 1,000 police were on hand to watch the mammoth rally.

Demonstrators ranged from youths with bare feet and beatnik beards to Member of Parliament Michael Foot. They were led by 88-year-old philosopher Bertrand Russell and included Anglican Canon John Collins, head of the campaign for nuclear disarmament, and Jacquetta Hawkes, wife of writer J. B. Priestley.

The crowd was estimated by police to number 50,000 and by the demonstrators to number 100,000.

After the rally 1,000 of the marchers converged on the U.S. embassy in Grosvenor Square and sat in silent protest for an hour.

The marchers included beatniks, Communists, Quakers, Scottish nationalists, Jewish youth groups, Church of England youth groups and other organizations and representatives from 37 nations, including the United States.

HAMBURG (Reuters) — About 8,000 West Germans took part in "ban-the-bomb marches," ending with rallies in 10 big West German towns Monday.

In Amsterdam, The Netherlands, some 1,600 ban-the-bomb demonstrators took part Monday in marches through the city.

Fairbridge Contest

Best Plowmen Coming

DUNCAN — B.C. plowing championships will be held at Fairbridge Farm Saturday, the first time the event has been held on the Island.

Five or six of the top plowmen in the province are expected to compete. Winner will travel to the Canadian championships in eastern Canada in the fall.

Representing the Cowichan district in the plowing match will be J. L. Saville of Cobble Hill and Len Phillips of Fairbridge. Entries from the lower mainland will provide the competition. Judges will be Henry and George Thompson of Chilliwack.

John Tisdalle, MLA for Saanich, will open the affair and Don Morton, reeve of North Cowichan municipality, will be the master of ceremonies.

As an added attraction during the day, Mr. Saville's specially trained yoke of Ayrshire oxen will give a demonstration of plowing.

Archie Stevenson, Cowichan Station, is chairman of the plowing match committee. Other committee members include: J. L. Saville, vice-chairman; Mrs. Joan Westwick, Cowichan Station, secretary-treasurer; Ken Jameson, district agriculturist, and R. H. M. Shaw, Duncan, past chairman.

Alberni Bed-Pushers Bound for Richmond

PORT ALBERNI — Sharon Sloan, Alberni District Teens Associated candidate for the title of Miss Teen Town, and her supporters will arrive at the B.C. Teens conference in Richmond, Wednesday after a bed-pushing trek from their home town.

Between 50 and 60 local teeners are expected to take part in relays in pushing the bed over the highway. A side trip to Cedar district for a dance on Tuesday night is part of the plan.

The trek will start at Port Alberni city hall at 10 a.m. with the group's deputy mayor Bug Odgers as leader. Cars will form a caravan giving lifts to all those not actively engaged in pushing. Local merchants have made donations for advertising space on the bed.

Deputy mayor Odgers said that Cedar and Ladysmith members and their candidates will join the expedition Wednesday morning and a police escort had been arranged for the trip through Vancouver to Richmond.

There will be 13 official delegates from Alberni District Teens Associated at the conference.

At the last council meeting of Alberni District Teen Town, decision was made to change the name of the organization to Alberni District Teens Associated.

At Duncan

Cowichan Trustees Invited to Meeting

DUNCAN—Board of trustees of Cowichan School District have been invited to attend a public meeting at the Knights of Pythias Hall in Duncan on April 14.

Meeting has been called by George E. Bonner of Cobble Hill, former board chairman, and is being sponsored by parents and ratepayers of the Cobble Hill high school area.

Subject to be discussed at the meeting is: "Is the policy of the school board short-sighted?"

Mr. Bonner said the meeting had been called for a dual purpose: To let the people of Duncan know what's going on in the school district and to give board members an opportunity to explain their policies.

Cobble Hill residents, Mr. Bonner said, are alarmed over the board's plan to remove Grade 11 from George Bonner High School at Cobble Hill and transport the students to Cowichan High School in Duncan.

Such a move, he said, would reduce property values in the area and make it difficult for the school to obtain and hold qualified teachers.

"This sort of move will put us 20 years behind the times," Mr. Bonner said. "This policy is short-sighted when you consider that the population of the unorganized area has increased two-to-one over that of the organized."

Windows Smashed

CAMPBELL RIVER — Vandals armed with rocks smashed 34 windows in the Cedar Street Elementary School over the weekend.

Police said the school classrooms were littered with broken glass and rocks.

The school is in a secluded area outside the village boundary.

Prominent Islander Passes

CAMPBELL RIVER — Joseph Dominique Iaci, prominent Campbell River citizen, died of leukemia Sunday in Vancouver.

He came to Campbell River in 1948. He had been a chairman of the school board for nine years, a former director of Campbell River Chamber of Commerce, and a past president and member of the Rotary Club. He was also owner and operator of the Willows Hotel.

He is survived by his widow, Irmie, his mother, two daughters, Gloria of Campbell River and Josie of Seattle, about four grandchildren and a brother.

Courtenay Blaze

Heat, Fires Not On But Home Levelled

COURTENAY — A young married couple lost their new furnishings and wedding presents in a mystery fire Saturday night that completely levelled their rented home on the Island Highway 10 miles north of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erikson were out visiting and no heat or fires had been on in the house since early in the day, police said.

Campbell River and Courtenay fire departments answered the call turned in by a neighbor who happened to spot the glow after the fire was well started.

Insurance of $6,500 was carried on the four-room dwelling by the owner, William W. Hunchuk. The Eriksons' furniture and gifts valued at $2,000 were not insured, police said.

Courtenay Kinsmen Club began collecting clothing for the Eriksons yesterday.

Murison to Work For Flood Control

DUNCAN — Maj.-Gen. C. A. P. Murison, former reeve of North Cowichan municipality, has accepted the post of permanent chairman of the Cowichan-Koksilah River Flood Control Committee.

A veteran and able administrator, it will be his task to bring all parties involved in the flood control problem together and to assist in working out a plan for sharing costs of any projects undertaken.

As a first step towards coordinating efforts on the flood control problem, Gen. Murison has asked engineers concerned to meet with him later this week or an on-the-spot inspection of the two rivers.

Representatives of the city of Duncan, North Cowichan municipality, Indian affairs branch, department of highways, federal fisheries department, water rights branch and MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. have held several meetings on the question since both rivers went on the rampage in January and caused thousands of dollars of damage to residential and farm land in the Cowichan district.

Being studied as one means of solving the problem is a 1958 report, prepared for the Indian affairs branch, recommending straightening of several curves and deepening both rivers. Estimated cost is around $250,000.

The city, municipality and Indian afairs branch have already gone on record as willing to assume some of the costs involved providing other parties concerned agree to pay a proportionate share.

Burglars' Blast Leaves Shambles

$15,000 Safecracking

Police Sift Groceries For Clues in Robbery

Police sifted through pounds of rolled oats and rubble yesterday for leads in a safecracking at a Colwood store that netted robbers about $15,000—one of the biggest hauls on record in this area.

A heavier-than-usual charge must have been used to blow the safe, police said. The shattering blast sent pieces of the safe door hurtling like shrapnel through the store.

PROFESSIONALS

Professional cracksmen are believed responsible for the raid on the IGA Foodliner at 1860 Island Highway, just short of Colwood Corner.

The tubular safe, set in a 3½ foot concrete block, yielded about $10,000 in cash and $5,000 in cheques, cashed Thursday and Saturday by store customers.

The Friday holiday between two busy shopping days, and the fact that store officials missed banking by 10 minutes Saturday, accounted for the amount of money on hand.

NOTHING LIKE THAT

"Ordinarily nothing like that amount is left in the store," said co-owners Earl Dennison, 2835 Queenston, and Clair Taylor, 3373 Maplewood.

Mr. Dennison, who was in the store until 12.30 a.m. Monday, said insurance covered a loss by theft up to $10,000.

Shambles caused by the blast was discovered at 8 a.m. yesterday by produce manager Victor Lee, 764 Princess, when he arrived for work.

"I unlocked the front door as usual with my key," he said, "and was just starting to put on the lights when I looked over into the corner. What a mess!

"I just took off to a nearby service station and phoned the RCMP and the owners."

Police found that entry had been gained by jimmying the front door.

PILED IN FRONT

The explosive, believed to have been nitroglycerin, was packed about the safe door, and items from store stock piled in front in an attempt to absorb the blast.

The flying safe dial struck an eight-by-eight support pillar almost 20 feet away, and knocked it 45 degrees out of line.

Throughout the litter on the floor, and amid damaged displays nearby, police found torn fragments of cheques and bills.

The thieves also cleaned out the store's cash registers. Several cartons of cigarettes were taken.

Mr. Dennison yesterday asked that anyone who cashed cheques at the store Thursday or Saturday get in touch with him.

Centennial

Outright Grants Wanted

Victoria centennial committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said yesterday he is looking for outright grants to the city in connection with its 100th birthday next year.

He said he hopes the province will make two such grants to Victoria, one for a permanent object of some sort marking the occasion and another towards offsetting the cost of the centennial year program.

COST-SHARING

Straight grants are preferred to any sort of cost-sharing plan on a percentage basis, the chairman said.

He said his committee, which will meet on Friday, has received several suggestions for suitable permanent improvements which might mark the city's first century, but that the province may prefer to name its own gift.

Old Age Wrinkles

Council Scrutiny

What Ails City—And Cure, Study Topic

A major study of what ails Victoria and how to administer the cure will go before city council this summer, a spokesman for the Capital Region Planning Board said yesterday.

The study, undertaken by the CRPB at the request and expense of the city, may prompt a federal-civic urban renewal project designed to iron out many of the wrinkles of old age which mark Victoria's appearance.

CRPB planner Darshan Johal said yesterday that all field work in connection with the study has been completed and the preliminary reports have been drawn up.

All that remains, he said, is to draw up the final report and recommendations.

He said that if an urban renewal project is undertaken here it will proceed along three directions, redevelopment, rehabilitation and conservation.

The redevelopment phase, which would be limited in scope in Victoria, would involve demolition and replacement of structures deemed beyond repair.

Rehabilitation would consist of improving outdated structures considered still basically sound, and the conservation program would be designed to protect that which is now considered acceptable.

Where residential buildings are involved the federal government pays half the cost of renewal.

Big Courtenay Contract Will Be Let on Friday

Around The Island

COURTENAY — Contract for the main part of the city's sanitary sewer system will be let Friday, Mayor W. C. Moore said yesterday.

Eleven bids ranging from $749,125 to $1,017,962 were received from B.C. and Alberta firms for construction of trunks and laterals. Tenders for the lagoon disposal system will be called later.

"We are well pleased with the calibre of firms bidding and the three lowest figures will be well within the estimates of our consultants, Associated Engineers," Mayor Moore said.

A reply is awaited from the highways department for permission to cut trenches across government roads instead of drilling. Cutting could mean a difference up to $75,000 less on the job, the mayor said.

Remaining tender for the lagoon will be called when the federal government advises if material from the proposed dredging of the Courtenay River can be made available to the city.

A federal loan of $176,000 at 5⅛ per cent interest has been approved for the sewer system. Completion of construction by April, 1963, will write off 25 per cent of the loan.

City superintendent Niel Dresen has been appointed sewer inspector by council. His main job will be checking connections to buildings during sewer construction.

NANAIMO—It only took Nanaimo RCMP 20 minutes to trace a stolen car Sunday but the thieves had done 700 miles of joy riding before the car was reported missing.

Owner George Crossland of Nanaimo, said he had parked his car behind a city garage while he went to Vancouver for the long weekend. Returning to the city, he found his car had gone. Within 20 minutes a police patrol car found the missing car in the Plaza Hotel parking lot. The engine was still warm. There was no damage to the car—except for less rubber on the tires.

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipality of North Cowichan has approved a 1961 public works program calling for a total expenditure of $175,050, about the same amount as spent last year.

In addition, projects totalling $15,000 will be done from special bylaw funds.

Work budgeted in the 1961 program includes: roads—$20,000; bridges—$2,000; snow and ice removal—$1,000; drainage and storm sewers—$10,000; sidewalks and retaining walls—$3,000; workshops and yard maintenance—$700; small tools and equipment—$850; maintenance and repairs to equipment—$26,000.

Administration costs are set at $16,000 and supervision and labor at $88,500.

Over-all winner, with 104 points, was Bill Smith. Runner-up, with 101 points, was Stu Timbers. Don Richardson finished third with 87.

Big winner during the day was the Kinsmen Club's health centre project. More than $30 was raised.

COURTENAY—A patient of a Comox private hospital "apparently was left unattended for an excessive period of time" prior to his death, an inquest jury has stated in a rider to its main verdict.

The jury found Mah Leong, 63, died from choking on regurgitated food particles while taking a bath at 1.30 a.m. March 8 at the Fort Hospital.

Testimony indicated the elderly Chinese did not welcome supervision of his regular midnight bath.

While no blame was attached specifically to anyone, a more adequate system of communication on the premises and close inspection of patients at all times was recommended, the jury's rider said.

Leong's body was found by another patient who went to the bath because of his friend's long absence.

NANAIMO — A Duncan motorist has been charged by RCMP for careless driving after an accident Sunday. Verne Allan Scott was charged after his car sideswiped a car driven by Robert Burns, 775 North Terminal Avenue, Nanaimo.

Police said Burns was making a left-hand turn off Terminal Avenue North when Scott's car struck his car. About $800 damage was done to Scott's car.

COURTENAY—Police today were continuing their search for a hit-and-run car involved in a three-car accident last week at the city limits.

Annie Luga, 3, of North Vancouver, was treated for a deep head cut and bruises by a doctor at the scene.

The child was a passenger in the car of Joseph Cvetkovich, 1395 Fernwood Crescent, North Vancouver, struck while en route to visit author Roderick Haig-Brown at Campbell River, police said. Cvetkovich's car was knocked out of control into a parked car.

Police said roadblocks established on all major highways from Qualicum to Campbell River failed to turn up the missing car believed to be red or pink and with a damaged left front fender and headlight.

DUNCAN — Saturday is "D-day", deadline day for householders taking part in the confidential shopping survey sponsored by the retail division of the chamber of commerce.

Questionnaire forms must be completed and returned no later than Saturday. Forms may be dropped in any one of the special boxes at five local food stores, returned to Box 1650 or dropped into the chamber of commerce office.

A total of 1,400 questionnaires were distributed and chamber of commerce officials expected to receive about 500 back. Information obtained from the survey will be used to prepare a report on how consumers rate Cowichan district's shopping facilities and services and recommendations for improving them.

Family Flees Flames

Fire originating in a basement corner caused a Burnside mother and three small sons to flee their home for the safety of a neighbor's home at 9.30 a.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Armitage, 1191 Burnside West, was vacuuming in her home when she noticed smoke coming up in a corner of the living room.

DROVE HER BACK

When she opened the basement door, billowing smoke and fumes drove her back. She closed the door, gathered Bruce, 7, Chris, 6, and Robbie, 3, and headed for the door.

On her way she paused long enough to dial the operator on the telephone, and the alarm was relayed to Saanich fire department.

Firemen found flames starting to eat into the living room from the basement.

CAME HOME

Neither Alfred Armitage, who came home from work, nor Deputy Fire Chief Glen Robbins could say how the fire started. It began in a corner of the basement where some chesterfield chairs and camping equipment were stored, and the flames found their way through a cold air vent to the living room.

Damage was confined to half the basement, and was light on the main floor.

Still Room On Goodwill Annual Tour

Victoria Chamber of Commerce officials said yesterday that accommodation for six more persons is still available in connection with the annual goodwill tour which leaves for San Francisco on Saturday.

Some 30 members and wives have already signed up for the week-long tour.

Fares are $125 single and $225 double, and include overnight accommodation during the week. A total of four days will be spent in San Francisco.

Chamber Delays Jobless Benefit Anti-Abuse Plan

A Victoria-sponsored plan to prevent exploitation of unemployment insurance by seasonal workers will be held "under wraps" for seven months.

Proposed by Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the plan was approved by the convention of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island last month but no further action will be taken for the time being, a spokesman said last night.

NATIONAL RALLY

Adopted as a resolution by the ACCVI convention, the plan will be submitted to the national chamber convention, to be held in Halifax Oct. 1-4.

The scheme calls for an inflexible annual wage ceiling of $5,460 for persons to be eligible to participate in the unemployment insurance scheme.

PAYING HALF

Persons earning less than that would be allowed to contribute to the fund as at present, with the employer paying half the contribution.

Over that amount, persons would not be permitted to take part. At present, if an employee earns more than $5,460 he can continue to participate in unemployment insurance if he pays all the contribution himself.

SHORT PERIODS

Some seasonal workers, notably commercial fishermen, at present may earn more than $5,460 in a short period and then draw unemployment benefits.

"If the national convention approves the plan it will be sent to Ottawa officials," the Victoria spokesman said. "We don't plan to do anything about it until then."

Pensioner Flees Fire In Cottage

FULFORD HARBOR — An elderly pensioner had a lucky escape from death yesterday when a spark ignited the roof of his two-roomed cottage.

John Brown, about 80, was having a cup of tea before an afternoon nap when he noticed smoke near the ceiling of the cottage.

HIGH WINDS

He found the roof of the building blazing, fanned by high winds. Fire trucks from Ganges and Fulford Harbor attended but were unable to save the cottage.

Mr. Brown lost all his possessions apart from a few clothes. The cottage was completely destroyed.

BLEW SPARK

Fire officials said last night they believe the high winds blew a spark from the cottage chimney into the dry roof and fanned it into flames.

Mr. Brown stayed with neighbors last night.

Holland or Japan

$3,500,000 Less

City Shipyards Will 'Wait and See' If $7,000,000 Job Goes Overseas

Victoria shipyard officials yesterday adopted a "wait and see" attitude in the face of threats that a multi-million-dollar ship contract for B.C. could go overseas.

They were commenting on a recent announcement by Northland Navigation Company that it will build two big ships in Holland unless the federal government shortly brings down new legislation to help Canadian shipowners.

Capt. H. F. C. Terry, president of Northland, said in Vancouver it would cost $7,000,000 to have the ships built here.

He said Holland or Japan can build the ships for $3,500,000.

Capt. Terry said he can't wait much longer for the government to bring down its proposed Ship Construction Act as the first ship has to be ready for service in May of next year.

The new legislation, designed to assist Canadian shipowners build new vessels in Canadian yards against overseas competition, was mentioned in the Throne Speech and is expected to be placed before the Commons sometime this month.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, said his yard would be "very disappointed" to miss out on the Northland job, on which it was ready and willing to bid, and which would nicely supplement the "meagre" supply of major shipbuilding jobs available to west coast yards.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., declined to comment on Capt. Terry's statement in view of the imminence of new federal legislation dealing with the matter.

Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips said he was confident the new legislation, whenever it is brought down, will go a long way towards curing the ills besetting shipyards on the west coast and throughout Canada.

Meanwhile, Mr. McPillips said, the government has been doing what it can to meet "certain problems" facing B.C. yards by calling for tenders where possible only on the west coast if the vessel was to serve in local waters.

'Accidental Drowning' Ruling Handed Down in Tot's Death

"Accidental drowning" was the ruling handed down yesterday by Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore in the death Friday of four-year-old Gina Kunalevich, 893 Dominion.

Shortly before 4 p.m. Friday Mrs. Jean Kunalevich, the child's mother, found the little girl face down in a hole dug for a post, in which some water had accumulated. The hole had not been boarded over, a member of the family said.

Efforts at resuscitation carried out by neighbor Hector Renton, 801 Dominion, and by Esquimalt police were vain. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

SMALL BOY DROWNS IN POOL NEAR HOME

Macfarlane Standout 'New Boy'

By PETER BRUTON

Of this year's crop of legislative "new boys" Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane was a standout.

Last September's provincial election saw quite a few changes and when MLAs gathered in Victoria for the recent session one-third of the province's 52 legislators were new.

True, two of these 17 had served in the House previously — North Vancouver's J. Gordon Gibson of the Liberals and Frank Calder, the Indian CCFer from Atlin.

The session had hardly got under way before Mr. Macfarlane began to show the quite considerable debating prowess he has at his command.

And by the time the session was nearing its end he was getting one of the highest accolades given opposition MLAs — Premier Bennett would openly display his anger and displeasure at Mr. Macfarlane.

Unlike most other professions a lawyer makes his living at debating and at that Mr. Macfarlane excels. Perhaps he's just a very good lawyer but it seemed to observers that he was the one who mostly scored with a telling criticism or a sound suggestion when it was needed most.

Another lawyer and another Liberal, Harry McKay of Fernie, came closest to Mr. Macfarlane insofar as ability was concerned but he openly admitted that he was still trying to find his feet, so to speak, and didn't say as much as he could have.

Outshone Most Others

It was perhaps unfortunate for Liberal Leader Ray Perrault that two of his members plainly outshone him. But the fact remains they outshone most others, including some who had been in the House for years.

The new Liberal leader didn't have a good session.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner summed it up well when he accused Mr. Perrault of "superficiality."

All too often it seemed the Liberal chieftain would arise and say how such and such an expert supported his views or how the people who should know said such and such.

"Name them, name them," the other members would shout.

Mr. Perrault couldn't or at best wouldn't identify someone who could not be regarded as an impartial and unbiased expert.

It seemed he was a little out of his depth, that he was an amateur in pro ranks.

The member who really surprised was Gordon Gibson, the millionaire logger who first said "money talks" in the issuance of forest management licences.

Before the session Mr. Gibson told students at University of B.C. that he intended to uncover untold scandal in Victoria.

"I haven't looked under the rug yet but I'm sure the dirt is there," he said.

This in itself sparked a monster of a legislative row which reached ridiculous proportions when there was talk that Mr. Gibson could be arrested and incarcerated in the jail cell in the basement of the legislative buildings.

Three Years Later

Mr. Gibson, it must be admitted, was the first to publicly state that there was something wrong in the lands and forests department. Three years later former lands and forests minister Robert E. Somers was sentenced to five years in jail on bribery charges.

In the interim the burly Mr. Gibson had resigned his seat to test public opinion and had lost—to Social Credit.

This year he came to Victoria to have his day.

He certainly had it.

In a sensational speech he attacked both Highways Minister Gaglardi and Attorney-General Robert Bonner, he accused the government of moral decay and corruption, and he openly hinted that scandal was everywhere, waiting to be uncovered.

For a week or more charge and counter-charge rocketed back and forth. Mr. Gibson had sought special privileges, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson. He was trying to buy information to hurt Social Credit, said the government. That wasn't true, said Mr. Gibson.

And from then on Mr. Gibson settled down to speak only on a subject he knows intimately—forestry and logging.

The government didn't accept many of his suggestions but he was praised by the Socred members for the manner in which he was delivering his criticisms.

On a man to man basis the CCF had a very good group of new members.

Served Short Stint

Alex Macdonald of Vancouver East, who served a short stint as a CCF MP in Ottawa, was impressive as was the CCF's social welfare critic David Barrett of Dewdney.

Both showed an ability to hit and hit hard and once again the success of their attack was demonstrated in the anger it generated from the government side of the House.

Mrs. Camille Mather (CCF-Delta) started slowly but picked up steam as the session went on and will no doubt improve greatly during the next four years.

But all things considered there was one standout as the most colorful of all new members on either side of the legislature.

That was Waldo Skillings, the new Social Credit member for Victoria.

Before the session Mr. Skillings said he would say and do little until he had learned the ropes and had time to get his feet under the table.

Within a few days, it seems, he succeeded in his aim.

He became the government's main heckler . . . sometimes it seemed he would heckle just for the sake of saying something.

For instance a request from CCF leader Robert Strachan for the government to do something about flooding in the Cowichan-Newcastle area brought this cry from Mr. Skillings:

"Think of B.C. Bob, put B.C. first."

It was an amazing comment to say the least.

But observers still regard Mr. Skilling's exhibition in the public accounts committee as the piece de resistance of the whole session.

Words having failed he invited a CCFer to step outside to settle their differences. What could top that?

Ferries Cut Deep Slash In Traffic at Airport

VANCOUVER (CP)—Manager William Inglis of Vancouver airport says airport passenger traffic in 1960 was 125,000 less than forecast largely because of the provincial government's Tsawwassen ferry service to Vancouver Island.

Total number of passengers in and out of the airport was 925,000 compared with a forecast of 1,050,000.

Second Death In Esquimalt

PATRICK CARSON

The second Greater Victoria death by drowning of a four-year-old child in a three-day period occurred yesterday in Esquimalt.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital was Patrick Robert Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Carson, 105 Fernhill, who fell into a private swimming pool about 200 yards from his own home.

LESS THAN MILE

On Friday, less than a mile from yesterday's tragedy, four-year-old Gina Kunalevich, of 888 Dominion, drowned in a rain-filled hole, dug for a clothesline post.

Police confirmed the Carson boy drowned in a pool but threw a veil of secrecy over details.

COWBOY HAT

Apparently the lad, wearing a cowboy hat and two gun belts, wandered away from home during the late afternoon. Police went out to look for him shortly before 6.30 p.m.

A prepared press release from Esquimalt police said that a neighbor, Jack Moffat, of 640 Fernhill, heard that other neighbors were searching for the youngster, and went to his swimming pool where he found the body in the pool.

PHONED FOR HELP

Police also said a woman phoned for help from the Moffat residence about 6.45 p.m. and that when their car, nearby at the time, arrived at the scene, Mr. Moffat was applying artificial respiration.

One of the two policemen who attended—Consts. Archie Browning and Frank Bell—applied mouth-to-mouth respiration en route to hospital.

NO RESPONSE

The boy was dead on arrival but respiration was continued for five minutes with no response, said a hospital spokesman.

Police notified the coroner, Dr. John H. Moore.

HOW DEEP

Asked how deep the water was and whether there was a fence around the swimming pool, Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe said, "You'll have to find out for yourself."

The front-yard pool is surrounded on three sides by a high wooden fence. There is a large rock outcropping on the side closest to the Moffat home.

DEEP END

Mr. Moffat said he found the boy at the deep end of the pool where the water was about six feet deep. It was about three feet deep at the shallow end.

The child's grandfather, Robert Saunders, 3977 Rainbow, who accompanied the saddened parents to hospital, said Patrick was the only son. The Carsons have a one-year-old daughter, Deborah.

Choice of dates for the four byelections, to be announced by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker soon after Parliament's return next Monday from its Easter holidays, rests between June 12 or June 19, according to cabinet sources.

All four constituencies were formerly held by the Conservatives. The current line-up in the 265-member House of Commons is: Conservatives 202, Liberals 50, CCF-New Party nine, vacant four.

Algeria Ready To Talk

TUNIS, Tunisia (Reuters)—The information minister in the Algerian insurgent provisional government said Monday night peace talks with France could still open as scheduled Friday if the French government shows "goodwill."

The insurgent government announced last Friday it could not attend the talks.

Cut Off All Ties With South Africa 25 States Tell UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Twenty-five African nations demanded Monday night that the United Nations break all diplomatic, economic and political relations with South Africa because of its apartheid policies.

A resolution calling for the UN General Assembly to recommend extreme penalties against South Africa was submitted by the 25 nations for debate in the assembly's special political committee.

LED BY GHANA

The move, led by Ghana, represented a split in the Afro-Asian group.

India, Ceylon and Malaya submitted a resolution earlier that would permit nations to take whatever single or collective action they thought fitting to try forcing South Africa to change treatment of its 10,000,000 non-whites.

WITHDREW

South Africa, at the recent Commonwealth prime minister's conference, in London, withdrew its application for continued membership in the Commonwealth.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd said the decision was made because of continuing criticism of South Africa's policy of apartheid by the other members of the Commonwealth.

Empress Bucks Ice

MONTREAL (UPI) — The passenger liner Empress of Britain with 525 passengers aboard was reported making slow progress last night in the Gulf of St. Lawrence en route to Montreal.

The Canadian Pacific liner was scheduled to arrive here today but officials said last night that the ship's arrival time could not be confirmed.

The 25,000-ton liner was proceeding through more than 30 miles of thick ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It sailed from Liverpool March 28.

Longer Day in Fall For High Schools

VANCOUVER (CP) — The school day will be longer in B.C. high schools starting in September and the Christmas holiday will be cut by three days, Education Minister Peterson told the B.C. teachers' convention Monday.

Hours in junior and senior high schools will be 15 to 30 minutes longer (minimum of 5½ hours and maximum of 6) at the discretion of the individual school board.

The 10-day Christmas holiday will be cut to seven school days but the Easter vacation will not be changed "at this time." There will be no change in elementary school hours.

Lynn Peachy, graduate of Oak Bay High School, was awarded the $200 Charlesworth memorial scholarship by the teachers' federation.

Mrs. Ingrid Cowie, Campbell River elementary school teacher, won the $300 1961 Christie scholarship.

31 Held in Vast Ban-Bomb Rally

LONDON (UPI) — Thirty-one demonstrators, including an American, were arrested last night in the aftermath of a giant downtown rally against nuclear weapons that spilled over to the American embassy.

Two of the arrests were made in front of the embassy and 25 more in front of the Saville Row police station several blocks away. Four other persons were arrested at the rally in Trafalgar Square.

Scotland Yard refused to disclose names of those arrested but said their case would be heard today.

More than 1,000 police were on hand to watch the mammoth rally.

Demonstrators ranged from youths with bare feet and beatnik beards to Member of Parliament Michael Foot. They were led by 88-year-old philosopher Bertrand Russell and included Anglican Canon John Collins, head of the campaign for nuclear disarmament, and Jacquetta Hawkes, wife of writer J. B. Priestley.

The crowd was estimated by police to number 50,000 and by the demonstrators to number 100,000.

After the rally 1,000 of the marchers converged on the U.S. embassy in Grosvenor Square and sat in silent protest for an hour.

The marchers included beatniks, Communists, Quakers, Scottish nationalists, Jewish youth groups, Church of England youth groups and other organizations and representatives from 37 nations, including the United States.

HAMBURG (Reuters) — About 8,000 West Germans took part in "ban-the-bomb marches," ending with rallies in 10 big West German towns Monday.

In Amsterdam, The Netherlands, some 1,800 ban-the-bomb demonstrators took part Monday in marches through the city.
